LARGE CROWD SEES MEN MAKING ROUNDS

Food Conditions Improved as Five Tons of Beef Arrive From Hoboken.

The left wing of the bonus army was marching and countermarching early today on the Capitol Plaza, led by an agile drum major, while awaiting the convening of Congress which they beseek to enact payment of the soldiers' bonus before the adjournment predicted for today or tomorrow.

Chanting the songs they marched to in war days, the veterans were vociferously voicing their claims late last night before a massed crowd of Washingtonians which was finally dispersed by Metropolitan and Capitol policemen under command of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police.

The marching began shortly after 11 o'clock. The veterans earlier had been given notice by Gen. Glassford that they must get "on the move" as soon as the Marine Band concert concluded at 9 o'clock.

Presence of thousands of spectators prevented enforcement of Gen. Glassford's edict, which was motivated by Vice President Curtis' decision that the bonus seekers could not violate Capitol Grounds regulations prohibiting loitering.

Tense Situation Develops.

For two hours vehicular traffic was barred from the plaza and police reinforcements helped marshal the crowd. A tense situation developed for a few minutes when a woman objected to being pushed by a policeman. Just afterward the atmosphere was again fraught with possibilities when Gen. Glassford ordered arrest of Walter Kaspar, 31, of Chicago, Ill., for allegedly boisterous conduct. Kaspar was later released after detention at the First Precinct Station for two hours.

Camera flashlights and movie cameras added to the confusion on the plaza. An unidentified veteran, said to have been shell-shocked in the war, collapsed when a flashgun went off near him. After treatment by Dr. Leon Gordon he was pronounced fit again to resume the march.

Seven vacant two-story brick houses on the south side of the 2100 block of New York avenue northwest were possessed as quarters last night by an arriving contingent of bonus marchers numbering 60 men.

Majority From Tennessee.

The veterans were under the leadership of I. C. Schooler, who said 150 more would arrive today. Most of them were from Nashville and other Tennessee cities. Detective Sergt. C. C. Stepp inspected the outfit and gave Commander Schooler some admonitory advice.

Kindly Ultimatum.

The police head earlier in the evening had delivered a terse but kindly ultimatum to the "left wing" of the bonus army encamped in the Capitol grounds, and the augmented California group folded up the figurative tents it had pitched near the Capitol.

Roy Robertson, crippled leader of the contingent, and Gen. Glassford spoke from an improvised rostrum across from the House side of the Capitol. After the police head's short talk, which was roundly cheered, the tanned chieftain indicated to his men his acceptance of the general warning that he would enforce the edict

Uruguay Breaks With Argentina

Ends Diplomatic Relations After Buenos Aires Cruiser Incident.

Montevideo, July 13 (U.P.).—Uruguay broke off diplomatic relations with Argentina today, delivering a passport home to the Argentine Ambassador.

Foreign Minister Blanco said that the rupture was caused by Uruguay considering as unfriendly the Argentine attitude respecting the recent visit of the cruiser Uruguay to Buenos Aires.

The Uruguayan cruiser steamed across the wide Plata River to the Argentine capital on July 9 for the Argentine Independence Day celebration. Just before leaving Montevideo, Gen. Severo Toranzo, an Argentine exile, had boarded the cruiser, assertedly merely for a visit. His presence on the cruiser resulted in Argentine naval planes escorting the cruiser into Uruguayan waters after the celebration.

Famous Resort Presents Added Attraction as Flames Sweep Boardwalk; Mobs Fight to See Spectacle; About 200 Injured.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Coney Island, famed playground of millions, was saved from destruction tonight after fire had turned four blocks of its internationally known boardwalk into ruins.

Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman announced early this evening that the conflagration which threatened for a time to wipe out the resort had been brought under control. Hundreds of small structures along the Atlantic Ocean were still burning, however, and a dense pall of smoke hung over the beach.

The number of injured was listed by Dr. Richard Greef, commissioner of hospitals, at about 200, 40 of whom were sent to hospitals. Forty-six firemen were treated for minor burns and smoke inhalation at one emergency hospital and 160 civilians were taken care of at two other stations. None of the injuries were expected to result in fatalities.

The damage to bathhouses, apartment buildings, small concessions and dwellings was estimated by William C. Meinch, chairman of the Coney Island Chamber of Commerce, at $2,500,000, of which about $1,500,000 was covered by insurance.

A four-block square area, bounded by the ocean front and Surf avenue on one side and Twenty-first street and Twenty-fifth street on the other, was a blackened mass of wreckage and that section of the promenade was in ashes. Scattered buildings outside the main locale had been burned also and hundreds were homeless.

At least five large bathhouses, all of them expensively equipped; a six-story apartment house, five three-story apartment houses, and dozens of cheaply built stands were caught in the fire's stride. They burned rapidly and showered sparks over all the resort. Half a dozen persons suffered injuries from smoke and sparks.

Upward of 75,000 merrymakers, lured to the beach by a sultry afternoon, were interested spectators and interfered with police and firemen as they milled around. Scores of them had lost their belongings in the destruction of several groups of bathhouses and added to the confusion as they fought to get into the burning lockers.

Luna Park, the Half-Moon Hotel, several well-known side shows and the homes of permanent residents were in the path of the flames, but were not in immediate danger. Thirty thousand people live in Coney Island the year round and are augmented by about 130,000 resorters in the summer.

It was an awe-inspiring sight as the fire ate into the internationally known promenade, rolling great billows of smoke over the ocean and raining sparks on the beach. The throngs stampeded on several occa-

U. S.-CANADIAN PACT ON POWER IS READY

Hoover Will Sign Treaty on Mammoth St. Lawrence Project Soon.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Negotiations between the United States and Canada for the construction of the St. Lawrence waterways system have finally been completed, it was officially announced at the White House yesterday, and within a few days President Hoover will sign the treaty with Canada to begin work on the greatest engineering project of modern times.

The new engineering scheme will open the entire Great Lakes region of the United States to transatlantic shipping and release over 2,000,000 horsepower for Canadian and American uses. The total cost is expected to be more than $800,000,000.

The President has thus been able to lift the St. Lawrence waterways scheme out of the realm of political controversy, where Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York wished to discuss the project. The New York executive sent a telegram to the President last week suggesting that the President invite him to a personal conference on the proposed plan.

The interest of the New York Governor in the public works proposal is derived from the fact that the State of New York as principal beneficiary in the gigantic hydroelectric power

Concepcion, Chile, July 13 (A.P.).—Twenty children were reported killed and forty others injured in a panic in the Esmeralda Theater at the Talcahuano naval base when a film caught fire today.

HOUSE PASSES HOME LOAN BANK MEASURE

Is Sent to Conference After Heated Fight Featuring Open Bitterness.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

The home loan bank bill, last of the measures in the economic rehabilitation program advanced by President Hoover, was passed and sent to conference by the House yesterday after a heated battle which left some in doubt about the ultimate fate of the measure.

The fight over the measure extended much beyond it. It was made to serve as a political battleground with the contesting forces trying to focus an estimating eye on the November elections, which was found difficult because of open bitterness engendered by weariness and strain and the impending battle for political life.

The conflict involved the $2,122,000,000 relief bill, the vice presidential aspirations of Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, as well as opposition on both the Republican and Democratic side of the dividing aisle in the House to some of the important features of the measure as passed by the Senate.

House conferees will meet with those from the Senate this morning with the knowledge that in the House there is considerable opposition to the Glass amendment providing for utilization of $995,000,000 in Government bonds for Federal Reserve currency expansion and to the absence of the LaGuardia restriction on the interest-plus charges beneficiaries of the bill may charge home buyers.

Despite the conflict of views and interests, however, responsible Democratic leaders predicted agreement and passage of the measure. Repub-

Dry Leaders Weigh Policy To Back Hoover Candidacy

Sentiment Grows Against Third Party Idea, But Prohibitionists Inclined to Await Statement by President; Group Meets Here Today.

(Associated Press.)

Whether organized prohibitionists are to support Herbert Hoover in the presidential campaign, as they did four years ago, was among the foremost questions under discussion last night by those to participate at the meeting here today of the national prohibition board of strategy.

No unanimity is apparent as yet, some private expressions among the leaders being in favor of indorsing the Republican ticket now, and others showing an inclination to await a personal declaration as to the President's present position.

It was clear last night, however, that there is a pronounced disposition among some in the prohibition organization ranks to get behind the Hoover-Curtis ticket, especially if the President reiterates his last statement on the eighteenth amendment —in which he opposed removing it from the Constitution. At the same time, the organizations would work to elect dry candidates for Congress and the State Legislatures.

Meanwhile, a five-point program comes up for action at the current sessions. As already studied by those meeting, it calls for—

Opposition to submitting the question of repeal or modification to the States.

Efforts to meet it, if it is submitted, in State Legislatures, whether Congress refers it "to legislatures or to conventions."

Opposition to having it submitted to State conventions.

Campaigning for "dependably dry" national and State legislators.

Procurement of accurate data on where candidates stand.

While declining to be quoted, various prohibitionist organization leaders here for the conference said yesterday they saw no promise of effec-

AMENDMENT ASKS REPORTS OF LOANS

Congress May Adjourn After Measure Is Sent to Hoover Tonight.

(Associated Press.)

The huge new relief bill, redrawn to conform to views of President Hoover, yesterday was virtually assured of final congressional action before the end of another day, making possible adjournment of Congress within the week.

The House passed the bill, 296 to 46, substituted it for the measure put through by the Senate Tuesday and dispatched it to conference. For a time it appeared agreement on the few differences between the two might be obtained last night, but long Senate delay in appointing its representatives put off the conference until today.

House leaders still spoke hopefully of adjournment tonight, but from the Senate indications were for completion of the seven month long session tomorrow or Saturday.

Senate Appoints Conferees.

The Senate delay came on objections to appointing conferees until the House had put the home loan bank bill, last of the administration reconstruction program measures, into conference. When an attempt by the House to do this failed, the Senate on a plea by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, named its conference members. Soon after the House objections to the other conference were withdrawn and both bills thus found themselves in conference committees, with sessions set for this morning.

The Senate had sought to amend the relief bill once again and actually adopted a clause to add 200,000 men to the military services, but this action was reversed when Robinson pleaded against further delays.

The House had substituted its own bill to avert the possibility of another veto in view of the provision in the Senate bill authorizing Federal Reserve Banks to discount notes of private individuals and corporations. But in the Senate such fears had been allayed by assurances that Secretary Mills and Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board did not oppose the provision.

Called "Hoover Bill."

Described by Democrats as the "Hoover bill," the House measure did not contain either the Senate's Federal Reserve loan provision or the proposal of Speaker Garner that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be authorized to make loans to individuals, which caused President Hoover to veto the first relief bill.

Railway's Harbor Seized in Manchuria, Dispatch Declares.

Moscow, July 13 (A.P.).—A Khabarovsk dispatch published here today said Manchurian local police commanded by a Japanese adviser, seized the Chinese Eastern Railway's harbor on the Sungari River at Harbin, July 7.

This action, the dispatch said, was a violation of Japan's promise not to interfere with the operation of the Chinese Eastern, which is jointly owned by China and Russia.

The Japanese adviser, named Khorriushi, first demanded that the railway's commercial chief hand over keys to loading docks and warehousse, the dispatch declared, and when this was refused he returned with a squad of police who removed the railway guard and broke the warehouse locks and seals.

Paris Baffled by Death Of Magnate's Daughter

Paris, July 13 (U.P.).—Police investigated tonight the mysterious death of Mrs. Kay Whelan Gordon-Ellis, daughter of Frederick Whelan, United Cigar Stores magnate, who died in the American Hospital supposedly from an overdose of sleeping medicine.

Mrs. Gordon-Ellis, who is said to have inherited $5,000,000 from her father, was married to an English dentist, Dr. Gordon-Ellis, in Paris in 1926. Ten days ago they were divorced, and she was granted custody of their two children. On Sunday, just a week after her divorce, she was taken to the hospital in a stupor.

FUND SHORTAGE CLOSES BANK IN BRIGHTWOOD

RAYMOND SCHREINER HEAD OF DEPOSITORY

Action Taken for Suspension of Activities to Protect Depositors.

When national bank examiners last night reported a shortage in the bank's accounts, the board of directors of the Bank of Brightwood voted to suspend the bank's operations and placed it in the hands of the Comptroller of Currency.

The bank is located at 5913 Georgia avenue northwest.

The board took this action in an emergency meeting held in the office of I. I. Chorpening, chief national bank examiner. They voted to close the $1,000,000 institution and place its affairs with the Comptroller of Currency.

The action of the directors followed by a few hours a rumor that the president, Raymond L. Schreiner, had shot himself.

Police Investigate.

One of the directors, Joseph Nicholson, reported the rumor to Montgomery County police. He went with them to Schreiner's home, 312 Tulip avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

There police did not locate Schreiner. They learned that his wife and two children had left earlier.

Later Mr. Schreiner heard of the rumor and went to the bank. The directors meanwhile had asked that an examination be made by the national bank examiners.

Shortage Total Not Learned.

When the shortage was reported, the directors' meeting was called. The amount of the shortage could not be learned last night.

The Bank of Brightwood was organized in 1922 at the instigation of the Brightwood Citizens' Association. Mr. Schreiner was its first cashier.

The bank, one of the thriving smaller banking institutions of the city, reached $1,000,000 in assets in March last year.

Mr. Schreiner was elected president in 1926 and at that time he is believed to have been one of the youngest bank presidents in the country. He was then 28 years old.

Was Cashier Also.

Mr. Schreiner was born in Washington in 1898, and after serving as a page in the Senate he became connected with the Union Savings Bank, which he left to become cashier of the Brightwood institution.

Mr. Schreiner was also in the newspaper business. During the World War he enlisttd in the Army, serving overseas with the 104th Signal Battalion.

The move of the directors in closing the bank was deemed the best action to protect the money of depositors.

Miss Earhart Sets Mark for Women

Flies From Coast to Coast in 19 Hours and 14 Minutes.

Newark, N. J., July 13 (A.P.).—Amelia Earhart Putnam broke the women's transcontinental flight record by nearly ten hours today without even trying.

Although she failed by more than an hour to lower Frank Hawk's coast-to-coast time, partly because of a forced landing at Columbus, Ohio, she said she might try to clip five hours from his time in a faster ship later.

Her flying time from Los Angeles to Newark was officially set at 17 hours 59 minutes 40 seconds. Her elapsed time, which is what counts in setting records, was 19 hours 14 minutes 40 seconds. Hawk's record, which has stood for five years, is 17 hours 38 minutes 59 seconds.

Parliament Recesses To Convene October 27

London, July 13 (U.P.).—Parliament adjourned today for the summer recess, to convene again October 27, subject to the speaker's summons in the event of an earlier emergency.

The two houses have been in session for nine months of arduous work. The budget has been balanced, as far as legislation can balance it. A fund of £150,000,000 has been created to safeguard the pound sterling against undue fluctuations, and Britain's financial house has thus been put in order. Commons expects to be called upon to work on a supplementary budget in the autumn, with further drastic economies.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE DISPUTE MEANING OF REPORTED DEBT PACT

Herriot Sees Link With War Cost

SETTLEMENT HERE VIEWED

Connects Treaty With Lausanne Action

Paris, July 13 (A.P.).—Premier Edouard Herriot declared today that under the new Franco-British accord Great Britain has no right to negotiate a new war-debt settlement with the United States without first consuling the French government.

The premier told the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies that the accord guarantees a concerted attitude by France and England, "thus facilitating the success of negotiations with Washington."

Peace Is Called Aim.

The new instrument is a complement to the "gentlemen's agreement" signed at Lausanne, M. Herriot said, explaining that the "gentlemen's agreement" bound the debtors of the United States not to ratify the Lausanne treaty settling German reparations until each of them had obtained a satisfactory settlement of its own debts.

After his interpretation of the treaty before the finance committee, the premier told the press that France and Briain had negotiated the new instrument in the interests of peace in Europe and in the world.

Friendship Is Stressed.

"This document is solely, as it is profoundly, of pacifist inspiration," he said.

"I wish to affirm forcibly that it signifies the loyal friendship of Britain and France and their ardent will to combine their efforts, their labor and their experience to contribute to good understanding between the peoples of Europe and throughout the world in the organization of peace."

Robert Mantell's Son Escapes Death in Fire

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Robert Mantell, jr., like his famous father, a Shakespearean actor, and others, narrowly escaped death today as flames partially destroyed a four-story brownstone building in Fifty-second street.

Mantell made the most spectacular escape. Facing smoke and flame in the hallway after he roused from his sleep on the top floor, the actor tossed his luggage out the window onto the roof of the next building and then risked a four-story fall to hoist himself to safety by grabbing the ledge of the other building.

Man Sought in Kidnap Case Is Reported Slain

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—The Sun said today it has learned that Able Wagner, supposed to have been sought in the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation, was slain two months ago, his body encased in a barrel of cement and finally sunk in the East River.

He was murdered, the paper said, as the result of a gangland double-cross.

Text of Accord Signed By France and Britain

London, July 13 (A.P.).—The text of the new Anglo-French accord, as announced in the House of Commons by Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon today, follows:

In accordance with the spirit of the covenant of the League of Nations, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom and the French government intend to exchange views with one another with complete candor and to keep each other mutually informed of any questions coming to their notice, similar in origin to that now so happily settled at Lausanne, which may affect the European regime.

It is, however, hoped that other governments will join them in adopting this procedure.

They intend to work together with other delegations at Geneva to find a solution of the disarmament question which will be beneficial and equitable for all powers concerned.

They will cooperate with each other and with other interested governments in careful and practical preparation for the world economic conference.

Pending negotiation at a later date of a new commercial treaty between the two countries, they will avoid any action of the nature of discrimination by one country against the interests of the other.

QUIZZING OF HOOVER ON LAUSANNE FAILS

Move to Ask President of U. S. Activities There Beaten in Senate.

(Associated Press.)

The McKellar resolution to ask President Hoover as to this Government's activity in negotiations connected with the Lausanne reparations agreement was rejected yesterday by the Senate foreign relations committee, 8 to 4.

The resolution was introduced Tuesday by Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, after the Senate had received a denial from Secretary Stimson that this Government was party to the so-called gentlemen's agreement reported to condition the Lausanne reparations settlement upon revision of the debts due the United States.

The action of the committee yesterday was interpreted by members of the group as putting an end to the dispute so far as the Senate is concerned.

"False Maneuver" Held Submarine Loss Cause

Paris, July 13 (A.P.).—A "false maneuver" caused the sinking of the French submarine Promethee, which went down off Cherbourg July 7 with a loss of more than 60 lives, the ministry of marine announced tonight. A board of inquiry found that apparently a sluice was opened at the moment when electric propulsion was being changed for Diesel motor propulsion.

Divers who have gone down to the ship determined that the hull was not damaged, and it was their opinion that it was an inrush of water rather than an explosion which caused the tragedy.

British Hold U. S. Is Not Affected

SAY EUROPEAN ISSUES CAUSE

3 Other Powers Are Invited to Join Accord

London, July 13, (A.P.).—Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon surprised the House of Commons by announcing today that Britain and France had signed a new accord under which they will "exchange views with complete candor" in attacking the problems that have kept Europe in turmoil.

The foreign minister emphasized that this agreement had no connection whatever with relations between France and the United States or Britain and the United States, specifically in respect to the war debts owed to America.

"If the French people are allowed to believe that this agreement refers to the war debts to America, they will be quickly disabused," Sir John declared.

Conflict in Interpretation.

(An apparent conflict in interpretation of the accord developed when Paris dispatches quoted Premier Edouard Herriot as saying that, as the first immediate consequence, Britain can not make new arrangements for debt payments to the United States without first consulting France.)

The foreign secretary's announcement was made shortly before Parliament automatically adjourned until October 27, and there was no opportunity for full elucidation of the document by debate.

The pact contains four general heads:

(1) It provides for complete and candid consultation on problems "similar in origin to that now so happily settled at Lausanne, which may affect the European regime."

(2) It provides for cooperation to solve disarmament.

(3) It paves the way for cooperative preparation for the world economic conference.

(4) It bind the two nations not to discriminate against each other pending negotiation of a new commercial treaty.

Sir John explained that the accord was in no sense exclusive and that he already had presented copies of it to

MacDonald Peace Offer Is Reported

Rumored Intervening With Plan Boosting Hope for Irish Accord.

Dublin, (Thursday) July 14 (A.P.), A rumor that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain had intervened with an offer that might settle the Irish Free State's dispute with Britain was current here today as a tariff war between the two countries impended.

The Free State Government announced last night an intention to meet new British duties on its goods with a retaliatory tariff of its own against Great Britian.

Early today the Cabinet of President Eamon De Valera met, with William Norton, chairman of the Labor party, present.

Sheriff Reports Progress In Reynolds Case Inquiry

County Grand Jury Is Dismissed Without Referring to Mystery; Libby Holman Reaches Ohio; Walker in Seclusion at His Home.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 13 (A. P.).—The pistol-bullet death of Smith Reynolds, young heir to tobacco millions and husband of Libby Holman, former Broadway torch singer, today remained as deep a mystery as ever, a full week after the tragedy that shook this native city of the victim and aroused the interest of millions.

But the ensuing flood of sensational developments, marked by the grueling examination of the young widow twice by a coroner's jury, appeared to have subsided suddenly and completely.

Sheriff Transou Scott, mild-mannered chief peace officer of Forsyth County, and head of local investigating agencies, said his inquiry was making some progress.

The county grand jury, in the province of which the case was automatically committed after a coroner's jury late Monday night returned a verdict of death from a gunshot wound inflicted by a person or persons unknown, wrote its final report for the term, without referring to the Reynolds mystery.

The report, concerned with routine matters, was read in superior court late today and the jury was discharged from further service. A new grand jury will convene July 25 for duty in connection with the next term of court.

"It means," said a county official closely connected with the investigation, "that the case is still wide open. It is an unsolved mystery. But, if we get sufficient evidence, soon or ten years hence, implicating any person, we can swear out a warrant and let the courts decide. An unsolved mystery is never closed."

Solicitor Carlisle Higgins and Assistant Solicitor J. Arle McMichael, who examined witnesses in the three-day inquest, said Sheriff Scott had

LAST SUPPLY BILL PASSED; SAVINGS HUGE

BUDGET ESTIMATES SLICED $181,128,265

Some Declare That Figure Will Be Erased by Deficiency Reports.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Congress yesterday passed its last big supply bill, took rapid reckoning of the eight close-cropped appropriation measures that had gone before, then held up a $747,310,507 saving as the sum total of its economy efforts.

The reckoning came with Senate passage of the $396,078,513 War Department bill, sliced $49,694,722 under 1932 funds. It followed an Army bill conference deadlock that broke only Tuesday when the House backed down on demands for retirement of 2,000 officers.

Here ended one of the strangest episodes in this country's budget history—a bicameral struggle to economize, climaxing in open competition between the two houses in appropriation slashing.

The $747,310,507 saving represents the reduction in current appropriations, excepting deficiency bills, under the $3,732,667,055 appropriated last year, plus $150,000,000 claimed for the Federal economy act.

Amounts to $181,128,265.

The cut under budget estimates was much more modest, amounting to only $181,128,265, for all the periodic drives for economy in House and Senate and ensuing unequal slashes in departmental supplies.

The Senate, which started out to save 10 per cent under House appropriations, but abandoned the policy after applying it to two bills, wrote only a $39,501,568 saving under House figures into the law.

Administration spokesmen claim much of the $181,128,265 reduction below 1933 budget estimates is not a saving at all, but largely will have to be made up in deficiency estimates. Departments receiving the 10 per cent cut, State, Justice, Commerce, Labor and Interior, look to deficiency channels for restitution of the inroads made on their fund before the slashing policy was abandoned.

Efface Last Year's Savings.

Appropriations for other purposes made at this session over and above the supply bills completely efface the total savings under last year's appropriations. At the House appropriations committee room these were computed to total $842,621,500. Included in this latter total was the $203,925,000 outlay for loans on bonus certificates, $500,000,000 for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $125,000,000 for expanding the capital of Federal Land Banks.

In addition, there is an indefinite appropriation for the purchase of wheat and cotton by the Federal Farm Board, to be distributed by the Red Cross, estimated at $50,000,000.

Fails at Reconsideration.

In this connection, Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, yesterday charged on the floor that Democratic leaders in forcing Senate passage of the Wagner relief bill "have undone all of the work we have been trying to do in an effort to balance the budget and reduce governmental expenditures." He failed in an effort to get Senate reconsideration of the $2,122,000,000 Wagner measure.

He charged appropriations for roads alone would require altogether nearly $100,000,000 more than the total savings under the economy act.

"We cut many of the Government departments to the bone, forcing discharge of numerous persons engaged in important scientific research which was considered too great a luxury to be indulged in at this time," he said.

"They are to be out of work while we provide millions of dollars for building unnecessary roads—roads not needed at the present time, but which are to be built to furnish employment, although obviously that employment will not help the persons we are discharging from the Interior, the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Departments."

None of Bills Increased.

None of the nine supply bills passed at this session was increased over budget estimates, and only two, the District of Columbia and War Department measures, were increased over House figures. The House voted only $39,913,810 for the District, but conferees boosted the figure to $41,245,622. The House originally allowed only $392,586,146 for the Army, but changed its mind Tuesday and voted $396,078,513.

Agriculture, Postoffice, Treasury and Navy Departments escaped with cuts below House figures, ranging from nothing at all to $9,000,000, but State, Justice, Commerce, Labor and Interior were severely hit, proportionately.

Following is a tabulation of last year's appropriations carried in the nine big supply bills, compared with those just passed by Congress:

	Last year.	This year.
Agriculture	$235,664,694	$175,408,814
Interior	69,342,606	45,533,672
State, Justice, Commerce and Labor	139,001,704	112,138,470
Treasury-Postoffice	1,104,586,890	1,056,247,833

Legislative	28,127,336	18,673,991
Navy	358,262,123	317,383,591
War	445,773,235	396,078,513

FARM RELIEF BILL PASSED BY SENATE

Rainey Will Move for Early House Action; Leaders None Too Optimistic.

(Associated Press.)

An emergency farm relief measure, intended to aid producers of wheat, cotton and hogs, was passed along yesterday by the Senate to the House, where a pledge for early consideration awaited it.

Shortly after the Senate approved the Norbeck one-year relief bill, House Leader Rainey, sponsor of a similar measure, said he would move for early action on it.

Senate leaders, however, were not optimistic over the possibility of final congressional approval of the measure before adjournment.

The bill passed by the Senate was advocated by the South Dakota Republican as a stopgap while Congress seeks to formulate a permanent farm relief program.

It calls for paying to the producer of wheat, cotton and hogs, on that share of his crop needed for domestic consumption, an amount equal to the tariff levies on wheat and hogs, and five cents a pound on short staple cotton, which is duty free.

The wheat payment would be 42 cents a bushel and that on hogs 2 cents a pound, less a small percentage for administrative costs.

These amounts would be paid in addition to whatever the commodities brought in the domestic market.

To meet the payments to the farmers, an adjustment charge of a corresponding amount would be levied on the processing of the commodity and be paid by the processor.

Col. Alba Jailed In Ecuador Plot

Plan to Make Him Dictator Is Revealed; Others Also Arrested.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, July 13 (A.P.).—Col. Luis Larrea Alba, temporary president of Ecuador for two months last year, was imprisoned today when the government heard of a new military plot to make him dictator of the country.

Several army officers of the garrison at Loja, including Commander Bolivar Valdivieso, also were arrested. A soldier carried information of the rebellious units to the government. Documents taken from the conspirators, a dispatch from Quito said, revealed a plan involving several garrisons whereby a coup would have been attempted next Friday.

Less than a year ago, while Col. Larrea Alba was provisional president, soldiers attempted to set him up as dictator, bombarding a barracks and shooting down four persons in a coup that failed.

Roosevelt's Yawl Makes 46 Miles in Day Cruise

Off Cuttyhunk, Mass., July 13 (U.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, cruising the New England coast, anchored his yawl here tonight after a 46-mile trip from Stonington, Conn.

Roosevelt left Stonington at 8:30 a. m. and arrived here at 7:15 p. m. (E.D.T.). Progress during the morning was slow because of light air, but the breeze picked up in the afternoon and the governor made excellent time.

BENCH NOMINATION ROW IS THREATENED

Senator King Is Opposed to Displacing Judge Sellers in Juvenile Court.

A Senate judiciary committee fight on appointment of Miss M. Pearl McCall to succeed Miss Kathryn Sellers as Juvenile Court Judge, was threatened last night by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, a member of the committee.

Nomination of Miss McCall, one of the assistant United States attorneys for the District, was sent to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover. Judge Sellers' term has expired. The Post some weeks ago exclusively predicted her retirement and named Miss McCall as one of the candidates for her office.

Lauds Miss Sellers' Record.

Senator King said he believed "something was back of" the retirement of Judge Sellers other than the injury she suffered in an accident some months ago, which has since confined her to her home.

He said he had no opposition to Miss McCall aside from his belief that Judge Sellers should not be displaced in view of "her thoroughly efficient and commendable record."

Miss McCall, formerly a clerk in the office of Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, was appointed on the recommendation of Attorney General Mitchell. A native of Greenville, Ky., she started life as a school teacher in Boise, Idaho. On coming to Washington, she studied law at the Washington College of Law, and received two legal degrees. Afterward she was appointed to the United States attorney's office. She has been there eleven years.

Indorsed by G. O. P.

Miss McCall is president of the Woman's Bar Association. She is indorsed for office by the Republican organization and other local groups, which point to her legal experience in nonsupport and domestic cases.

Miss Sellers was appointed judge of the Juvenile Court by President Wilson in 1919. President Coolidge six years later appointed her for another term.

Insolvency Writ Filed by Aviator

Capt. W. N. Lancaster Asks State to Pay Expenses in Murder Trial.

Miami, Fla., July 13 (A.P.).—A writ of insolvency was filed in circuit court here today for Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British army aviator, asking that the State be required to pay all the expenses of his trial on a charge of slaying Haden Clarke.

His attorney, James M. Carson, said the Englishman is without funds and sought to have defense witness fees and other incidentals charged to the State.

The trial is due to start July 26. State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne contends Capt. Lancaster shot Clarke, a young writer and fiance of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, the Australian aviatrix, in a love triangle. Mrs. Keith-Miller, flying partner of Lancaster for many years, is under summons as a material witness. She is under $1,000 bond pending a hearing August 1 of charges that she violated immigration laws by entering this country illegally in 1931.

GLASS INTRODUCES REPEAL RESOLUTION

(Associated Press.)

A resolution proposing a new constitutional amendment, repealing the eighteenth amendment but outlawing the saloon, was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia.

For years he has been one of the leading congressional supporters of prohibition.

The former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury asked for immediate consideration of his resolution, but this was blocked by Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska. Glass then said he would call it up again.

The constitutional amendment proposed by the Virginian would allow States that want liquor to have it, but would keep the saloon unconstitutional. It also would prohibit transportation of liquor into States where it was forbidden.

In Conformity With Plank.

The amendment would have to be ratified by State conventions within seven years or it would die.

Glass told the Senate his amendment was in conformity with the prohibition plank adopted by the Democratic national convention and was a "proposition which no Republican who is disposed to be guided by party declarations can resent or resist."

Senator Norris, however, objecting to its immediate consideration, said: "I can hardly understand how anyone would favor amending the United States Constitution by unanimous consent."

Glass replied he would call the resolution up later to "test the good faith and sincerity of the Senator from Connecticut (Bingham) and other Republicans who have engaged in 'testing the sincerity' of the Democratic party."

Not Committed to Repeal.

Off the floor later, Glass said his amendment would permit the sale of liquor in hotels and restaurants unless State laws interferred. He said introduction of the resolution did not commit him to repeal, and added: "I am merely submitting the question."

Another attempt to obtain action on a repeal resolution was then made by Senator Bulkley (Democrat), Ohio, who asked a vote on taking from the judiciary committee the repeal resolution introduced by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York. Norris, chairman of that committee, objected to this request also.

Then Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, also a supporter of the prohibition laws, lauded the Glass amendment as "an honest, re-l and substantial effort to carry out the platform adopted by the Democratic party in Chicago," and "as near an approach to the Republican platform as an intelligent man can get."

GROUP OF VETERANS MARCHES AT CAPITOL

of Vice President Curtis for evacuation of the lawn.

Gen. Glassford advised the men to go to billets provided for them in the regular bonus army cantonments scattered throughout the city.

Points to Regulation.

He cited regulations governing the Capitol Grounds prohibiting trespassing on the lawns. He pointed out, however, that there was no regulation or law that prevented the men walking around and through the grounds as long as they kept moving on constituted pedestrian walks.

Robertson told his men to strap on their equipment and move in and about the Capitol Grounds throughout the night.

Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), of Texas, strong bonus advocate in the House, introduced a bill yesterday to provide immediate payment of the money to unemployed and needy veterans. Opinion generally conceded the measure scant chance of consideration.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, attempted to call up a resolution he has introduced providing $150,000 for caring for the bonus seekers here. Two such moves were blocked when senators interested in other projects objected to Blaine's request for unanimous consent for consideration of his measure.

Point Out Emergency.

Both Senator Blaine and Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, sought to impress on the Senate the emergency character of legislation to care for the bonus armies.

Senator Copeland, nationally known health authority, spoke of the ever-present hazard of dysentery and other camp menaces. He said he did not think it fair that the District of Columbia should be forced to face these possibilities without Federal aid.

At the B. E. F. ticket office last night it was said 1,560 applications had been received for railroad fare, sustenance and gasoline and oil money. The time for expenditure of the $100,000 appropriated in this regard expires tonight at midnight.

Senator Gore (Democrat), of Oklahoma, introduced a resolution yesterday to extend the time for the transportation provision for the veterans until July 31. It was thought possible this measure would receive consideration today.

Waters Off Again for Aid.

Commander Walter W. Waters of the bonus regulars returned yesterday from a trip to Camden, N. J., where he solicited aid for his cohorts, only to hop off again in a plane for Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was to make a radio talk last night and a theatrical appearance in the same cause.

Headquarters of the B. E. F. yesterday said food conditions were improved. A shipment of five tons of beef was the most sympathetic news for the veterans among other food donations. The beef was donated by Hoboken friends.

Administrative matters in the B. E. F. took a more complex tone yesterday. National staff headquarters was established at 1841 North Capitol street in order to relieve congested administration conditions at the Southeast base. A judge advocate general will rule at the latter office, handling all minor claims of veterans.

Announcement by Harold Foulkrod, former legislative representative of the B. E. F., that he would conduct a "political school" for veterans tonight in judiciary square, was greeted with cold disdain by national headquarters. They said they took no cognizance of any activities of Foulkrod."

YESTERDAY IN CONGRESS

July 13, 1932.

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:45 p. m. until 11 a. m. Thursday.

Received nomination of Assistant United States District Attorney Pearl McCall to be judge of District Juvenile Court to succeed Judge Kathryn Sellers.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, introduced a constitutional amendment repealing the eighteenth amendment but prohibiting liquors in dry States, but Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, objected to its consideration.

Passed Norbeck farm relief bill by vive voce vote.

Adopted conference report on War Department appropriation bill sending measure to President.

Adopted amendment by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, to relief bill providing for recruiting armed forces to full authorized strength, but subsequently voted it out of measure and sent relief bill to conference with the House.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, offered an amendment to relief bill prescribing only American-made goods for Army and Navy, but withdrew it on objection by Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, that it would delay passage of the measure.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, lashed "power trust" and Federal Power Commission.

Senator Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, introduced a measure extending to July 31 the time limit of the Howell bill, providing loans to bonus-seeking veterans to return home.

Senator Gore blocked consideration of resolution to make appropriations for turning over 45,000,000 bushels of wheat and 500,000 bales of cotton to Red Cross for relief.

Foreign relations committee voted down McKellar resolution asking President about American participation in Lausanne "gentlemen's agreement" on debts.

Interstate commerce committee heard Marcel Garsaud charge that Senator Long (Democrat), of Louisiana, sought to coerce New Orleans dock board to give large contract to a particular company.

FARLEY TO DETAIL CAMPAIGN MONDAY

Howe Denies Treasurer for Roosevelt Campaign Has Been Appointed.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Plans for conducting the Democratic presidential campaign reached a point today where Franklin D. Roosevelt's managers were able to announce that complete details of their organization would be made public Monday.

After the governor completes his sea cruise the plan will be submitted to him for revision and approval. Then it will be announced in New York by James A. Farley, new national chairman.

Commenting on a report that the campaign treasurer had been selected and his name would be made public tomorrow, Louis Howe, Roosevelt aid, said:

"That is absolutely untrue. We have not yet chosen a treasurer, and even if we had we would not announce his name until the governor's return."

Howe announced receipt of a letter from Representative Edgar Howard, of Nebraska, who had been commissioned by the tribal council of the Winnebago Tribe of Indians at Winnebago, Nebr., to congratulate the Democratic nominee on behalf of the one class of our people who come very close to meeting the full measure of your own "forgotten man."

The letter expressed a hope that if Roosevelt were elected his heart would not beat "in harmony with that hideous bureaucracy and red tape system which has so long harassed and hurt the average American Indian."

200 B. E. F. Children Helped by Lone Nurse

A single-handed effort to conduct social service work among the 200 children who are with the camp followers of the Bonus Expeditionary Force, had been started by Miss Isabell Erdlitz, a graduate nurse of Georgetown University Hospital.

Her efforts are entirely voluntary. She has been teaching the youngsters patriotic songs and elements of dramatics, and plans in the future to take them on trips to the public buildings of Washington. The first of these trips will be made today when she conducts a group of them to the Botanic Garden.

Smuggling Charged To U. S. Warships

Merchant at Portsmouth Testifies at House Hearing.

(Associated Press.)

L. F. Savage, a Portsmouth, Va., merchant, charged yesterday at a House hearing that Navy transports and battleships are being used for smuggling into this country.

He and T. P. King, another merchant at the Virginia City, appeared before the committee investigating Government competition with private enterprise. They represented a group of merchants operating in the vicinity of the Norfolk Navy Yard.

Savage said he was informed by a Navy yeoman that the postmaster of a battleship, home from a midshipmen's practice cruise to Europe, had demanded and collected a $5,000 fee for the handling of a large batch of contraband goods.

HURLEY TO DELIVER G. O. P. BROADSIDE

Secretary to Speak Tonight at State Convention of Ohio Republicans.

Columbus, Ohio, July 13 (A.P.).—The second salvo of the Hoover administration's answer to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech accepting the Democratic presidential nomination is expected to be heard tomorrow night at the State convention of Ohio Republicans.

The convention, the first State gathering since the national convention, was called earlier than usual, leaders say, at the request of the administration so that a prompt reply to the New York Governor's address might be delivered in the Middle West.

Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, will be the speaker. His address will be the second by a Cabinet member in the week, Ogden L. Mills having delivered the first administration broadside at Roosevelt in Boston. Hurley's speech probably will be broadcast nationally.

Prohibition will be a delicate problem, with the party forced to decide whether it will follow the national platform calling for resubmission of the question or defy the Antisaloon League in its home State.

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, senatorial nominee, and David S. Ingalls, of Cleveland, candidate for governor, won their nominations on stands for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Delegates from Cleveland and Cincinnati have indicated they will ask a State platform pledging the party to work for repeal.

Whether independent dry candidates for senator, governor and representative-at-large are entered depends on whether the convention is "unreasonable," S. P. McNaught, chairman of the Ohio Antisaloon League, said today. He declined to explain what he meant by "unreasonable," but it was understood the Antisaloon League would be content if the national platform is adopted. Some party leaders believed this would be done, with an additional statement that the State prohibition laws be reconsidered.

Body of Bonus Marcher Recovered From River

The body of William P. Corning, 40, of Monroe, La., a member of the bonus army, was recovered yesterday from the Washington Channel at the foot of Eighth street southwest.

There were no marks of violence on the body. Deputy Coroner C. J. Murphy pronounced the man dead. Elwood Sprouse, 1434 Harvard street northwest, and William Canter, of 128 Quackenbos street northwest, discovered the body and informed the Harbor Police. The man apparently fell into the river a few days ago, police said.

Germany, Italy and Belgium, inviting those governments to become parties.

"I want to be particularly clear," he said, "on disarmament. We have already announced our intention of cooperating with the United States at Geneva, and I am going back there now to help work out the principles of President Hoover's proposals."

Although Parliament adjourned before debate could develop the full significance of the accord, it was learned in authoritative quarters that it is meant to indicate how European nations will work together for settlement of the purely internal difficulties of Europe.

The Anglo-French agreement provides machinery for dealing with all questions arising after the Lausanne Reparations Conference under existing treaties and agreements, including the Versailles treaty.

It is hoped that when such questions arise they will be dealt with by open discussion rather than by any sort of special or secret negotiations. This would cover such questions as revision of the Treaty of Versailles. By the terms of the new pact France can be certain that Germany and Great Britain can not make common cause for revising that treaty without consulting Paris.

Part of the plan envisaged in the accord, it was said in parliamentary circles in London, is to keep closest contact with the United States in any negotiations conducted under its first paragraph.

The fourth paragraph, ruling out trade discriminations, is intended to keep the Anglo-French situation in suspense until after the Ottawa imperial economic conference.

The accord was one of the swiftest accomplishments of modern diplomacy.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is flying to his home at Lossiemouth, Scotland, Saturday for a long rest recommended by his physicians. The speaker of the house is empowered to summon it into session in case of emergency.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN REYNOLDS INQUIRY

complete charge of the further course of efforts to determine facts.

"Have you any new evidence?" the sheriff was asked.

"We're picking up bits here and there," he said, but he would go no further.

With a staff of only seven deputies, and no skilled professional detectives to assist him, the sheriff indicated it is necessary for him to undertake most of the investigation personally.

Miss Holman, the black-haired Cincinnati girl who won popularity and fortune on Broadway before she met young Reynolds, and who was one of the central figures in the inquiry here, was back at home.

After an overnight train trip from Winston-Salem, where she arrived six weeks ago as the bride of the $20,000,000 tobacco fortune youth, and as mistress of the elaborate family home, Reynolds, she reached Clare, on the outskirts of the Ohio city, early today and was hurried to her home in a waiting automobile.

She left here sobbing and apparently under the stress of strong emotion.

Ab Walker, Winston-Salem youth and chum of Smith, who shared Libby's role as a material witness, held in custody by order of the coroner's jury, remained secluded in the home of his parents here.

Telephone inquiries for him brought the reply that "he has just gone out."

HOME LOAN BANK MEASURE IS PASSED AFTER HOUSE FIGHT

lican leaders were emphatic in their declarations that the measure would be passed even if it were necessary to keep Congress in session instead of adjourning tomorrow as had been planned.

Insists on Action.

The political battle became obvious when Speaker Garner called Representative Henry B. Steagall (Democrat), Alabama, to the Speaker's rostrum and held a whispered consultation, after which Mr. Steagall, chairman of the committee in charge of the home loan bank bill, disappeared.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), New York, insisted that there be action on the Senate home loan bill. Unless, it was said, the House acted on the home loan bill the Senate would not appoint conferees on the relief bill.

Demand for Conferees.

Subsequently Representative Snell demanded that conferees be named on the home loan bank bill. Speaker Garner said he was waiting for Committee Chairman Steagall to propose it. Obviously it was a bit of parliamentary maneuvering with a political complexion.

Late in the afternoon Mr. Steagall returned to the floor and asked unanimous consent that the Senate home loan bill be disagreed to and a conference asked. Representative John W. McCormack (Democrat), of Massachusetts, urged the importance of House conferees adhering to the measure passed by the House, but, he graciously added, he had confidence in House conferees.

Mr. Steagall said the Glass, some times called Borah, amendment was in reality a substitute for the Goldsborough currency expansion bill passed by the House.

Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, jumped to his feet, charging that the Senate bill had emasculated the House provision designed to guard against utilization of Federal funds by concerns which charged home buyers exorbitant rates of interest.

Has Not Changed Mind.

"Under the Senate measure, what with bonus, penalties, and charges of various kinds in addition to the legal rate of interest, concerns may charge the home owner 24 per cent interest or more and be aided by the funds of the Federal Government in doing so. I beg the gentlemen of the conference committee not to recede from this House provision."

"I supported the amendment limiting the amount of interest and charges which might be made against home owners, and there hasn't been anything to indicate I have changed my mind," Representative Steagall said.

Representative Louis T. McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, jumped into the discussion.

Is Called Dangerous.

"The Senate amendment to this bill increasing the Federal Reserve circulation basis by $1,000,000,000 may well mean, by the time it is translated into commercial credits, an expansion of $20,000,000,000," Mr. McFadden said. "That is dangerous and unless assurance can be given that this proposal will not be agreed to by the House conferees the bill should not be sent to conference. We have about enough of piecemeal legislation to amend the Federal Reserve act. I object."

Representative Carl R. Chindblom (Republican), of Illinois, sought to have Mr. McFadden withdraw his objection, saying it would be possible to have a separate vote in the House on the currency expansion amendment, but Mr. McFadden stuck to his objection.

Responsibility on Senate.

"As I understand it," Representative Snell said, "they (the Senate) are not going to do anything (with the relief bill) until we act on this bill now before us."

"Well," Speaker Garner replied, "if the Republican Senate is going to tell the House that it must accept one Senate bill before the Senate will act on another measure the responsibility must be theirs. Let's call their hand."

Apparently angered by Mr. Garner's reference to the "Republican" Senate, Mr. Snell served blunt notice that the President and the Republicans in Congress wanted the home loan bill enacted and added, "we're going to use every weapon at our command to get action on the home loan bank bill this session."

Mr. Garner said he thought the House had equal dignity with the Senate and it should not be dictated to and he proposed to stand up for its dignity.

Sent to Conference.

Subsequently informed of the Senate action naming conferees on the relief bill, on motion of Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, minority leader, supported by Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, majority leader, Mr. Garner announced the rules committee was prepared to report out a special rule to send the home loan bill to conference. Mr. McFadden, however, withdrew his objection, a special rule was not necessary, and the measure was sent to conference.

Representatives Steagall, Stevenson, of South Carolina, and Goldsborough, of Maryland, Democrats, and McFadden and Strong, of Kansas, Republicans, were named House conferees. That caused another flareup when Mr. Snell demanded to know why the Speaker did not accept his suggestion as to the Republican representatives. The Speaker said the conference committee was a nonpartisan matter within his judgment. Mr. Snell wanted Representatives Luce, of Massachusetts, and Campbell, of Pennsylvania, named as the Republican representatives. The Speaker, of course, has his way, but there was obvious feeling which will find its reflection in future matters.

BRAZIL MOBILIZES TO HELP SAO PAULO

$1,500,000 Credit Decreed to Fight Rebels in Control of State.

Rio de Janeiro, July 13 (A.P.)—The federal government mobilized men, money and munitions today to stamp out the revolutionary movement whose leaders have seized control of the important state of Sao Paulo.

A credit of approximately $1,500,000 was decreed to meet extraordinary expenses.

Meanwhile Porto Alegre became a clearing house for government troops with whom the federal authorities planned to wage vigorous warfare against the rebellion.

Porto Alegre is south of Sao Paulo in the state of Rio Grande do Sul. The attitude of this state seemed to be the deciding factor in what the revolt will accomplish. Government sources declared it remained loyal despite recent differences with Provisional President Getulio Vargas.

Major troop movements were going on today. The Nineteenth Battalion left Bahia and the Twenty-first left Pernambuco for Rio de Janeiro. The Third Battalion, from Victoria, is in Rio de Janeiro now and the Twelfth Infantry Regiment was ordered to the front from Bellohorizonte. The federal district military police and the civil guard were placed at the disposition of the army.

An official communique said that troops from Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Catharina and Parana were approaching the State of Sao Paulo in two columns.

Interventor (Governor) Flores da Cunha of Rio Grande do Sul left Santa Anna for Porto Alegre with 500 troops, who are to replace a larger detachment ordered to Sao Paulo to combat the revolutionaries. Crowds cheering President Vargas bade the interventor farewell.

The revolution is confined to Sao Paulo and will be suffocated within a few days, he told his well-wishers. "Rio Grande do Sul is tranquil and normal, and all Brazil is with the Vargas government."

The purpose of the revolutionary movement, as defined by its leaders in Sao Paulo, is to reestablish constitutional government.

Four Men and Woman Held After Rum Raid

Four men and a woman were held last night on illegal possession charges after Sergt. N. O. Holmes and C. D. Schamp, of the Tenth Precinct liquor squad, raided a rooming house at 3611 Georgia avenue northwest. They said they found 23 bottles of beer and five and a half pints of whisky.

One of the men, Claggett T. Rison, 59, of 172 Fifteenth street southeast, was also charged with sale of liquor. His bond totaled $2,000. Others arrested are Frederick E. Jackson and his wife, Bessie, and Francis T. Curtis, 22, all of whom gave their addresses at the raided house, and Clayton Parrish, 24, of 3805 Georgia avenue northwest.

NEW YORK'S FAMOUS PLAYGROUND ON FIRE

ECUADOREAN REVOLT REPORTED QUELLED

Leaders of Move to Proclaim Alba as Dictator to Be Court-Martialed.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, July 13 (U.P.).—Suppression of the military revolt in the important southern provincial capital of Loja was reported tonight. The remainder of the country was quiet.

Leaders of the revolt, which began when the battalion of Gen. Cordova proclaimed Col. Luis Larrea Alba "dictator of the republic" earlier today, will be court-martialed immediately.

Col. Larrea Alba previously had been taken into custody at Quito, the capital. Other officers, suspected of complicity in the movement, were also arrested.

The outbreak of the revolt was preceded by charges that President Baquerizo is a Peruvian citizen, and countercharges that Col. Larrea is a citizen of Chile. A birth certificate stating that Col. Larrea Alba was born in Santiago, Chile, on September 19, 1890, was published in Guayaquil papers today.

Col. Larrea Alba succeeded President Isidro Ayora as chief executive when the latter resigned in August, 1931. He served until the election and installation of President Baquerizo.

Two More Are Arrested In Treat Home Robbery

Two men were held last night on charges of investigation, accused by police as "fences" in the robbery of the home of Gen. Charles A. Treat, retired, at 1818 Nineteenth street northwest. They are John Kidd, 42, of 1802 Fourteenth street northwest, and William Watson, 24, 1825 Florida avenue northwest, both colored.

They were arrested by Detectives Joseph Shimon and W. B. Christian, of the Third Precinct. Their arrest brought the total of those held in the case to fourteen. Detectives said they found a heavy gold chain, valued at $150, and a valuable Japanese tapestry which had been taken from the Treat home, in the possession of the men.

CONEY ISLAND FIRE IS UNDER CONTROL

sions and formed a knotty problem for police.

About 5 o'clock the fire was spreading voraciously down the Boardwalk, with little hope of diverting it, when the wind suddenly changed and shunted the flames across Surf avenue. This saved the promenade temporarily, but boded ill for the more substantial part of the resort.

The ringing of special alarms brought every piece of firefighting apparatus in Kings County to the spot, preceded by high officials of the fire and police departments. Thirty engine companies, ten hook and ladder units, five high-pressure pumpers and other equipment, directed by all battalion chiefs of the area, were thrown into the battle to save the Spa.

Bathhouses, small inns, hot dog stands and dozens of entertainment concessions went up in smoke as the blaze gained headway. Several automobiles in the burning area caught fire and exploded. The storeroom of a shooting gallery blew up and sent bullets whistling over the heads of the spectators. Most of the structures were hastily built with wooden frames and tar-paper roofs, and were easy prey for the fire.

Many Lose Homes.

The resorters and permanent residents became panic-stricken as hours passed without apparent progress on the part of the firemen and began moving their effects from the danger zone. Many of them congregated in the lobby of the Half Moon Hotel, a prominent landmark, and watched their homes swept away.

The conflagration started about 3:30 in the afternoon in a motordrome at the corner of Twenty-second avenue and the boardwalk and advanced south for several blocks, taking everything in its way. Then it veered northwest in the direction of Surf avenue and began to sharpshoot scattered dwellings and shops. Preliminary estimates of the damage were several hundred thousand dollars.

At least two firemen, a policeman and two visitors were slightly injured in accidents attendant on the firefighting. Police roped off an area surrounding the burning district and redirected traffic around the locale. Sight-seeing buses began taking passengers out and the spectacle developed into pandemonium with firemen battling the fire and policemen battling the crowd.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Local Showers Are Expected Today; Record Heat Marks Registered.

The possibility of thunder showers was held out by the Weather Bureau last night as a hope that the heat wave which sent the official thermometer up to 95 and the kiosk to 105 would be broken today.

Between 6 a. m. yesterday and 8 o'clock last night, Washington experienced a 25 degree range of temperature. From 70 degrees at 6 o'clock, the mercury climbed steadily until it reached a peak of 95 between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. It dropped to a comparative low of 89 at 8 o'clock. On the street, reflected heat from Pennsylvania avenue pavements sent the kiosk indicator to a peak of almost 105 at 4 o'clock, where it remained until shortly after 6 o'clock.

The forecast for today is for cloudy weather with possibly local thunder showers. It will be fair and cooler Thursday with moderate west winds.

Heat Wave Widespread.

Chicago, July 13 (U.P.).—Temperature records fell, deaths from prostration were reported, and millions of people sweltered today as summer's first severe heat wave spread across the Nation.

Throughout the South and Southwest, the Middle West and the Eastern States, record on near record temperatures for July 13 were reported. Records for the season were broken in almost every State. In cities as widely separated as McKeesport, Pa., and Oklahoma City, Okla., there were reports of deaths from heat prostration.

In Chicago, the mercury hovered all afternoon around the 95 mark, which is the highest temperature ever recorded here on this date. Thousands of persons sought relief at beaches and resorts throughout southern Michigan. At Coldwater, Benton Fenno, 58, a farmer, died of the heat.

High Marks in Kansas.

Some of the highest temperatures reported were in Kansas, where the mercury climbed to 102 at Phillipsburg, 101 at Dresden, 100 at Garden City, and 99 at Hayes. Central Illinois baked under a broiling sun with temperatures around 95 and threatening to climb higher.

Extreme Northern States also felt the effect of the wave. At Madison, Wis., the temperature went up to 90. The Milwaukee Weather Bureau reported a high of 91, the record for the season. The Northern sections were, however, promised relief by tomorrow.

In Indianapolis, the temperature shot upward to 92 at noon.

The Chicago Weather Bureau said that in most sections the heat wave would be comparatively short-lived.

New Records in South.

Atlanta, July 13 (A.P.).—The South today was in the grip of a heat wave that broke one record which had stood since 1888 and caused new records for the year in virtually every city where official figures are reported.

Columbia, S. C., where the thermometer reading on July 13 had not been above 98 since 1888, and Lynchburg, Va., were the hottest places in Dixie. Each had official highs of 99 degrees. Atlanta went one-half degree better than yesterday, showing a maximum of 94 degrees. At Birmingham, Ala., it was 95.

U.S.-CANADIAN PACT ON POWER IS READY

Hoover Will Sign Treaty on St. Lawrence River Project Soon.

development will be called upon to defray an equable share of the expenses with the Federal Government. President Hoover declined the proffered conference and reminded the governor that the international phases of the question would first have to be settled before any discussion of the purely domestic interests involved would come up.

The joint board of Canadian and American engineers have fixed the total cost between $800,000,000 and $900,000,000. Of this sum, the State of New York will be asked to provide $150,000,000. As plans are at present, the New York authorities will have at their disposition a volume of horsepower exceeding 1,000,000, more than half the total amount used in the United States.

Nevertheless, Gov. Roosevelt, speaking on behalf of the State authorities, considers this estimate exorbitant and has made a counter-offer of $75,000,000. The deadlock will probably continue until Congress has been able to legislate on the details of the arrangements affecting the rights of the States and the Federal Government.

8-Year Negotiations.

Negotiations between the United States and Canada for the construction of the waterways project were initiated some eight years ago. The project had been languishing until President Hoover came into office when the work of completing the preliminaries was actively pushed.

The difficulty which the negotiators had to face involved internal details both in the United States and in Canada. In addition to the general agreement between the two nations, each one of them had to make similar agreements between their individual states and provinces. While the Federal Government was reviewing the project with the New York State authorities, the Dominion leaders were discussing the waterways with the Ontario authorities.

On Tuesday, the deadlock was finally broken after the Canadian premier, who had been in deep discussion with the Premier of Ontario, finally reached an agreement. The announcement from the White House declared:

"After a long period of intensive negotiations an outline of a treaty was concluded the middle of June; the terms were finally settled yesterday and the treaty is now in process of construction and will be ready for signature at an early date, when a full statement by the governments concerned will be issued."

Docks on Great Lakes.

From the harbors of the Old World the commerce of Europe will now be able to land directly in the Middle West; the iron ore of Michigan, the wheat of the Dakotas, the tractors of Illinois will be loaded directly at docks along the Great Lakes for delivery in the ports of Naples, Marseille, Istanbul, Liverpool and Hamburg.

The principal feature of the project includes two dams about 40 feet high, instead of the one that the United States engineers wished to construct. The single dam project, the Canadian technicians insisted, would have had the effect of raising water to such a height that there would be grave danger of an overflow. Therefore, two dams will be constructed within the next four or five years, one near Chrysler, Ogden Island, or near Barnhart.

List of Works Involved In St. Lawrence Project

Ottawa, Ontario, July 13 (A.P.).—The St. Lawrence deep waterway project involves the following new works:

1. Compensation works and some further excavation between Lake Erie and Lake Huron.

2. Compensation works in the Niagara River.

3. Excavation of Reefs and points in the Thousand Islands section of the St. Lawrence River from Lake Ontario to Chimney Point.

4. Two developments on the International rapids section, two canals and a total of three locks. Two power houses with an aggregate installed capacity of 2,200,000 horsepower.

5. Dredging of shoals in Lake St. Francis.

6. Construction of locks at the lower end of the Beauharnois Power Canal.

7. Control dams, and a canal with three locks from the foot of Lake St. Louis to Montreal Harbor with a power house at the foot of the Lachine Rapids with a final installed capacity of 923,000 horsepower.

HOUSE SENDS RELIEF BILL TO CONFERENCE

Final Agreement Expected Today; Possibility of Veto Averted.

capital limit to $3,800,000,000, of which $300,000,000 is to be loaned to States for relief of destitution. It provides a $322,000,000 public works employment program, to be put under way only when the Secretary of the Treasury certifies Federal funds are sufficient for the expenditure.

Thirty-five Democrats and eleven Republicans voted against the bill on final passage. The vote came after the Democrats forced into the measure, 170 to 169, an amendment compelling the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make public all loans in its monthly reports to Congress.

On this amendment Speaker Garner voted for the first time this session to break a tie.

At the suggestion of Speaker Garner, who said it was planned to adjourn Congress tonight, the House then unanimously substituted its bill for the Senate measure and sent it to the conference.

During the 40 minutes of debate on the bill, one after another of the Democratic members condemned it as inadequate but all that could be had. "The best we can get," said Representative Cochran, of Missouri.

Doughton, of North Carolina, said: "The responsibility rests on the White House."

Republican spokesmen hailed the bill as agreeable to the Chief Executive.

Representative Sabath (Democrat), Illinois, expressed hope "the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will act more judiciously and fairly in the future. It could have saved a number of the 32 small banks that failed in Chicago and declined to act," said Sabath. "But when Charles G. Dawes resigned and needed money for his bank, he got $80,000,000. That action was unjust, unwarranted and must be criticized."

(Associated Press.)

Senator Gore (Democrat), of Oklahome, blocked consideration in the Senate yesterday of a resolution to make appropriations for turning over to the Red Cross 45,000,000 bushels of wheat and 500,000 bales of cotton.

Senator Gore objected to a request by Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee to take up the resolution.

"I feel certain it would take at least $25,000,000 to carry this out," he said.

"It looks like an effort on the part of the Farm Board to bootleg wheat and cotton into the markets of the country. It would demoralize the cotton market and the cotton milling business."

Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, said the appropriation would "indirectly inure to the benefit of the Farm Board, the chairman of which has admitted it has already squandered $250,000,000."

Jones pointed out that Congress had already approved the resolution to turn the cotton and wheat over to the Red Cross for relief of destitution and said the new legislation was merely to carry out that proposal.

Peruvian Troops Force Insurgents to Retreat

Lima, Peru, July 13 (A.P.).—Troops and police had another battle with fleeing rebels in northern Peru today, taking Cajabama from the insurgents with the loss of a police officer and four men, according to a communique.

The rebels, whose losses were described as heavy, retreated toward Huamachuco after the defeat.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE REPARATIONS SETTLEMENT.

EUROPE has settled the reparations issue by proving to Germany that there is a Santa Claus. All Germany is asked to pay of the original $63,822,000,000 is $714,000,000, or about $11.25 less than the United States spent in cables warning the kaiser to cut out submarine warfare.

• • • •

The sum for which Germany will be allowed to settle for the World War won't cover the costs of the typewriter ribbons used in those 1917 messages telling Germany she must pay and pay and pay.

• • • •

Gen. Pershing spent more than that for oil and gas.

• • • •

The question of German war guilt is evaded. Germany's claim that in August, 1914, "everything went black and I don't remember anything until it was all over" is practically accepted.

• • • •

Under the terms at Lausanne, Germany is allowed to treat the whole question of her war debts like a man who buys an electric ice box on time payments and is allowed to settle by giving the company one day's ice.

• • • •

After the agreement the Premier of France and the Chancellor of Germany shook hands warmly and congratulated each other. This alone looks suspicious.

• • • •

Can it be just another scrap of Von Papen?

• • • •

WHAT America will get if anything is still problematical. She will probably get what any stranger gets who steps in on a private fight between old friends.

Still, it may all turn out for the best. You can't get blood out of a turnip, cream out of a pretzel or an expense account out of a phonograph record of the former kaiser's last war speech.

• • • •

And it may help in restoring world prosperity. There is no sense looking for prosperity in a nonstop brawl between a group of debt collectors and a man with a tin cup.

• • • •

It is everybody's duty to get the nations of Eurpoe back on their feet so they may enter the next war free and clear.

• • • •

But if any lesson was learned from the last one, it will be conducted on a pay-as-you enter basis.

TO PRODUCE THAT DIZZY FEELING.

MR. KREUGER'S New York office, it is testified, was furnished with antiques by his directions at a cost of $31,000. One of them was, we understand, an old spinning wheel especially put in so stockholders could ride on it.

MACHINE GUNS HALT CARAVAN OF MINERS

1,500 in Wage Dispute Pass Through Taylorville, Ill., After Warning.

Taylorville, Ill., July 13 (U.P.).—Defeated earlier in their efforts to force action at Springfield on their protests against a proposed wage reduction, more than 1,500 Illinois miners won a consoling moral victory tonight when they gained permission to pass through Taylorville en route to their homes.

The men, told to "move on" by sheriff's officers when they passed through here Tuesday on their way to the capital, returned tonight expecting trouble, and for a time it appeared that they would find it.

As their caravan of automobiles, stretching several miles along the highway, neared Taylorville a crowd of 4,000 persons gathered at the city limits.

Sheriff's officers, with machine guns in their automobiles, met the miners and told them they could not go through the town unless there was some guarantee they would make no trouble.

Finally Get Permission.

After a short delay, the officers granted permission for the caravan to pass, and at 9:30 o'clock the last automobile went through the town.

As the first automobile approached, officials shouted an order for the miners to halt.

"You can't come through Taylorville," the authorities told them.

All along the line the automobiles stopped. Miners jumped to the ground and ran to the "battle line." Threats were muttered. Slowly, as the miners gathered into a great mass, the officials backed away, still threatening violence if the miners entered.

The miners came here to protest against an agreement reached in Chicago recently to reduce the basic union scale from $6.10 a day to $5 a day.

Defy City Officials.

Springfield, Ill., July 13 (A.P.).—Defying city officials they charged attempted to interfere with their right of assembly, and roundly condemning their own district leaders, several thousand southern Illinois union miners concluded their tempestuous protest demonstration with a mass meeting tonight.

Speaker after speaker took the platform at the meeting here to denounce district officials of the union for the $5-a-day wage scale recently negotiated with Illinois operators.

The agreement was described as a "yellow-dog contract" and the miners asserted they would "starve to death" rather than "compromise the principles of our organization."

Following the meeting the miners planned to return to their home districts and carry on an energetic campaign to defeat the proposed new wage scale now before the rank and file for decision, in the form of a referendum.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Trenton, N. J., July 13 (A.P.).—Betty Gow, the Lindbergh baby's nursemaid, plans to leave shortly for Scotland for a long deferred vacation, it was learned today.

Little Rock, Ark., July 13 (A.P.).—An automobile struck a cow on a highway here last night and two youths were killed. The car overturned and pinned Virgil Grover, 18, and Jack Gray, 19, the latter a Negro, under the wreckage.

Mena, Ark., July 13 (A.P.).—Interference of his wife as he whipped their 2-year-old son led Raymond Clark, a farmer, to kill her at their home near here today.

Lykens, Pa., July 13 (A.P.).—Barney Godleski, of this place, was placed under arrest today charged with killing three of his four small children. The killings occurred last night.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 13 (A.P.). Miss Beatrice Vare, daughter of William S. Vare, leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization, was married today to Dr. John J. Shaw, of Philadelphia. Dr. Shaw is one of Mr. Vare's physicians.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 13 (A.P.). The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters concluded its forty-second annual convention today with an address by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Iola, Kans., July 13 (A.P.).—Iola's city tax rate for 1933 was fixed today at 75 cents per $100 valuation, the lowest in 73 years, and the commissioners estimated profits from municipal water, light and gas systems would make the city tax free in 1934.

tively defending the eighteenth amendment by means of a third party, however prominent its nominee might be. They expressed admiration for Senator Borah, but believed he would be unwilling to head such a venture, although leaders of the prohibition party at its convention in Indianapolis last week were convinced he would if the big dry groups should unite behind him.

The board of strategy meeting will be followed by a gathering of the national association of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment. Both meetings will consider the situation created by the Democratic repeal plank and Gov. Roosevelt's declaration in favor of it, and the Republican platform stand in favor of submission of an alternative for the eighteenth amendment to State conventions.

Oliver M. Stewart, of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, who already has declared himself for Hoover, said tonight he would propose that the board of strategy adopt the same course.

At the same time, he, with other officers of the foundation, issued a statement saying "few things are more certain than that either Herbert Hoover or Franklin D. Roosevelt will be elected President next November" and that a third party movement would be futile.

DANCER WEDS

MRS. EDWARD E. SMITH.

Formerly Miss Frances Short, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Short, of 1203 Kennedy street northwest, a dancer on the New York stage, was married in New York yesterday to Edward E. Smith, 39, a theatrical agent, it was learned here last night. Mrs. Smith has appeared as an acrobatic dancer in vaudeville here and abroad. She was graduated from Central High School in 1927. Mrs. Smith is the son of Abraham and Eva Swartz Smith, of New York. This is his second marriage. His first wife died early this year. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Atlantic City.

BANKING BODY PLANS THIRD TRADE PARLEY

Meeting Next Thursday to Examine Reports Made on Fifth Area.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A third meeting of the banking and industrial committee of the Fifth Federal Reserve District will be held in the board room of Riggs National Bank, July 21.

Members of the committee formed to improve business conditions in the district and representing the six States composing it, will convene that day at 10 o'clock in the morning and hold an all-day conference.

At this session, the committee, headed by Edwin C. Graham, president, National Electrical Supply Co. of this city, will hear reports on progress or completion of surveys to determine Federal, State and municipal construction now pending or under contemplation in the district and to ascertain what steps must be taken to launch these promptly together with the amount of employment which they involve.

The committee also expects to discuss reports on a second survey taken with regard to larger private projects with a similar purpose in view and yet another seeking definite information as to whether extension of credit to any sound bankable proposition had been declined and what propositions, if any, of this sort, could be initiated and financed profitably.

The local phase of the last-named survey has been completed. At a meeting of the District of Columbia unit of the committee June 30, it was announced that there was plenty of money available here for sound building projects. It was stated further that there had been no constriction with regard to availability of credit for substantial constructional operations.

At next Thursday's meeting reports on this and the other surveys will be received from the subcommittees of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, which States with the District of Columbia comprise the Fifth Federal Reserve District territory.

Search for Child Remains Fruitless

Minnesota Officials Ask Farmers to Seek Baby Missing Five Days.

Minneapolis, July 13 (A.P.).—The hunt for missing Leslie Delano, 20 months old, continued without results today. More than 100 Minnesota National Guardsmen continued to search near the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano, in suburban Columbia Heights, and along highways leading into the open country.

Farmers joined, in response to a plea from the guardsmen commander that all Minnesota residents, particularly those within 25 miles of Columbia Heights, search their property.

From various places came reports a child resembling Leslie had been seen, and a neighbor said she heard a child scream about the time Leslie disappeared Friday while playing in his parents' yard. But there were no definite clews.

RUSH H. WILLIAMSON IS DEAD IN NEW YORK

Prominent Attorney, Expert on Antitrust Laws, Was Native of Virginia.

Rush H. Williamson, 54, former special assistant to the Attorney General, a member of the law firm of Donovan, Bond, Raichle & Alvord, and an outstanding authority on Federal antitrust laws, died yesterday from pneumonia at the Lenox Hill Hospital in New York after an illness of little more than a week. Mr. Williamson made his home here at 3601 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Born in New Market, Va., Mr. Williamson completed his education at the University of Virginia, and, shortly after graduation, became Commonwealth's attorney of Shenandoah County. Coming to Washington, Mr. Williamson entered the Department of Justice, where, in 1927, he became special assistant to the Attorney General.

After fifteen years with the Department of Justice, Mr. Williamson became a member of the law firm of Donovan, Bond, Raichle & Alvord, spending a part of his time at the branch of the firm in New York. Col. William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General, refers to Mr. Williamson as "a brilliant legal man, unassuming and held with the deepest affection by all who knew him." His other partners are Albert C. Alvord, former assistant in the Treasury Department; Henry Herrick Bond, former assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury, and Frank Raichle, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The survivors are his wife, Mrs. Ruth Edwards Williamson, of this city, and three sisters, Misses Mary and Martha Williamson, and Mrs. Keyser Price, all of New Market.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in New Market. Pallbearers will include members of the law firm and former associates in the Department of Justice.

Hardy Digestion Is Urged In Bride's Cook Book Gift

By JOHN J. DALY

OUT in the Midwest, a big-hearted judge is marrying couples free of charge. He gives each bride a cook book in the belief that a well-balanced meal is more satisfactory than sweet whisperings of nothing, and that life-long happiness follows the design of culinary art rather than billing and cooing, with the bridegroom getting most of the billing.

"If you are a good cook, you can get along without love," the judge tells the girls, "whereas if you have only love to depend upon you will soon be in the divorce court."

In the estimation of the judge, the way to a man's heart is a detour through the kitchen.

Just what his honor gives the bridegroom, aside from some good advice, is not known. There are so many things a bridegroom should have while a bride is armed with a cook book. He should have, first of all, a good digestive system.

In this, the delicatessen age, when bologny is bologny no matter how thin they slice it, the average bride has as much use for a cook book as an Eskimo has for a bathing suit.

With or without a cook book, a bride has every reason to believe that the man she took for better or for worse will provide the necessary wherewithal—and that is his problem. It is, too, a man's-size job.

If the bride takes her cookbook seriously, working out recipe for recipe, experimenting and ruining a certain amount of foodstuff in the first stages of kitchen-fright, the bridegroom has a double problem on his hands—to keep his health and his temper and at the same time keep the bride cheerful by praising her ability as a cook.

If the bride throws the cookbook away, as so many of them do, and cooks by ear, there is still another danger confronting the bridegroom. He may go, sooner than he expects, to join his fathers.

The entire situation, viewed from any angle, is fraught with dire possibilities for the bridegroom and for the bridegroom alone, that unsung hero who walks trustingly along the primrose path of love.

A bridegroom, whether he knows it or not, is being made ready for the front-line trenches in the eternal warfare of living. Unless he is battling every hour of the day, in the downtown sector, keeping the lines of communication open, there will be little use for a cookbook.

As a prospective bread-winner a bridegroom must have more than a cutaway, a high hat, spats, and a silly grin on his face. With him, the orange blossoms are just so many sweet reminders of orange juice at breakfast—for two.

TWO YEARS GIVEN IN TEA HOUSE VICE

Philadelphian Convicted of Mann Act Violations in Bladensburg Case.

Baltimore, July 13 (A.P.).—The Federal Government's investigation of alleged white slavery activities in the Eastern States following a fatal shooting at the Old Colonial Tea House at Bladensburg, Md., last fall, was closed today.

Chester Renzulli, of Philadelphia, convicted of violations of the Mann act, was sentenced by Judge W. Calvin Chesnut in United States District Court to two years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta.

Other indictments resulting from the investigation were nolprossed on recommendation of Cornelius Mundy, assistant district attorney, who said he received his instructions from Neil Birkenshaw, of Washington, special assistant to the Attorney General.

Renzulli's sentence was ordered to run concurrently with previous sentence on a similar charge. He was convicted last month by a jury of transporting Anna Lutz from Philadelphia into Maryland for immoral purposes. Several other defendants were found not guilty by a jury upon a directed vote.

BUS DRIVER HELD IN DEATH OF CHILD

Playmates Say Boy, Found Dead in Hyattsville, Hit by Coach.

James A. Perkins, driver of a bus, which passed through Hyattsville a few minutes before 2½-year-old Dale Clark was found dead near his home in the Maryland town, yesterday was held for the coroner's jury in bond of $2,000.

Perkins, who gave his address as 1460 Clifton street northwest, says that he knows nothing of his bus striking the child, and none of the several passengers on the bus have reported seeing the accident. The bumper of the bus is marked with some foreign substance, which will be examined by doctors, police say. The bumper was brought to Hyattsville at the same time that Perkins was returned.

Three children who were playing nearby told police that little Dale was struck by a bus of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. Perkins was driver of a bus of this line which passed in front of the Clark home about the time of the accident. According to the children, the dead child had been sitting on the curb beside the bus, which had stopped to take on a passenger. As the bus started up, the little boy ran into the street. Police said that it was possible for Dale to have been struck without the knowledge of the driver.

The accident was investigated by Constables Jack Wilson, Carl Blanchard and Andrew Gasch. An inquest will be held before Magistrate John A. Downing tomorrow.

Two men, who were found near the site of a raided still with a small quantity of alleged liquor in their car, were held for action of the Federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran at Upper Marlboro. The men are Thomas Wilson, of Issue, Md., charged with transportation and possession, and James Galloway, of Faulkner, Md., charged with possession. Their bond was fixed at $500.

Similar charges against Maxwell Swann, of Faulkner, were dismissed by Mr. Parran. Federal agents said they found the trio near a 300-gallon still near which 1,000 gallons of mash were discovered. Charles Pryor, of Pomfret, Md., has been charged with manufacture, possession and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor after being arrested near a 200-gallon still.

Four persons were convicted on liquor charges yesterday in Hyattsville Police Court, fines totaling $300 being levied on them. Romolo Joe Gentilucci, who gave his address at 73 K street northwest, was fined $150 for possession of nine cans of alcohol, $25 for speeding and $1 for reckless driving. He appealed the sentence and was held in bond of $500. Others arrested were Roger Barker, who said he lived at 1235 C street northeast, $50 for two cases of whisky; Eva Piper, of Fairmont Heights, $50, and Russell Dodson, of Berwyn, $50 for possession of a still found on the Metzerott road.

Charges of larceny against Frank B. LaPorte, of Hyattsville, were nolle prossed and he was fined on a charge of removing an auto on which an attachment had been levied. LaPorte was accused of taking his own car from the garage of Bird H. Dolby after it had been seized for debt.

Funeral services will be held today at 2 o'clock at his former home in Hyattsville for Ferdinand J. French, who died Monday in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore at the age of 20. He will be buried in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Young French had been ill for about three months with a brain tumor. He was graduated in 1930 from the Hyattsville High School, where he was a member of the baseball team. The dead youth is survived by his father, Charles H. French, two brothers, Henry and Charles, and a sister, Miss Mary French.

Trolley and Truck Crash in Arlington

Driver Is Pinned in Cab and Narrowly Escapes Serious Injury.

Wesley Cornell, motorman on the Arlington-Fairfax Railway, and E. J. Beavers, reported to be the driver of one of the large trucks of the Standard Oil Co., narrowly escaped serious injury when the truck and the car crashed on the crossing at Hunter Station, Arlington County, yesterday afternoon.

Pinned in the cab of the truck, Beavers was released by Thomas N. DeLashmutt and K. Mesaick, both of Arlington County, who happened by just after the collision. Both car and truck were badly damaged.

Mrs. John Clarkson, wife of Deputy United States Marshal John Clarkson, and Mrs. Harry Whitehead, passengers on the car, were shaken up and bruised.

DICK TRACY—An Obligation

GOOD MORNING, CHIEF BRANDON, I JUST DROPPED IN TO INQUIRE WHAT HEADWAY TRACY HAS MADE AGAINST THE COUNTERFEITERS - SEEN HIM TODAY?
HAVEN'T SEEN HIM FOR THREE DAYS, MR. WALDORF. I'M KINDA PUZZLED.
FACT IS HE AND PATTON HAVE BOTH BEEN MISSING. OF COURSE YOU KNOW HOW TRACY IS - WHEN HE'S WORKING ON A CASE HE NEVER TALKS - NEVER TELLS ANYBODY WHAT HE'S UP TO.
CHIEF BRANDON, YEARS AGO AT MILITARY SCHOOL - AND LATER IN THE ARMY, I WAS A PRETTY GOOD SHOT - I'M STILL A PRETTY GOOD SHOT.
I KNOW THAT, MR. WALDORF I REMEMBER YOUR PICTURE IN THE PAPER WHEN YOU WERE ON ONE OF THE ARMY'S CRACK RIFLE TEAMS.
I'D LIKE FOR YOU TO DEPUTIZE ME AND GIVE ME A GUN AND STAR. DON'T THINK I'M CRAZY - I'VE JUST GOT A HUNCH I CAN RENDER A CERTAIN PARTY A SERVICE - - SORT OF PAY BACK A DEBT, UNDERSTAND?

ARLINGTON COUNTY OUSTS TWO CLERKS

Promotion of "Efficiency" Given as Reason; New Appointments Made.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Mrs. Lorena A. Ellis, deputy clerk of Arlington County, and Mrs. Mary Moore McIntoah, member of the office staff, were dismissed yesterday by County Clerk John A. Petty.

The only reason given by Mr. Petty was that the changes were made to "promote efficiency and harmony."

Miss Teresa E. Williams, of East Falls Church, was named to fill the office vacated by Mrs. Ellis. Miss Virginia Carroll, of Cherrydale, was appointed to Mrs. McIntosh's post. Miss Williams was sworn in as deputy clerk and will take over the work of the county court to relieve Chief Deputy Clerk Ralph E. Remington.

Mrs. Ellis had been an employe in the county clerk's office for the last twelve years. She acted as former Clerk Duncan's secretary in addition to the duties of deputy clerk of the court. Mrs. McIntosh became an employe of the office soon after Duncan's election 12 years ago. She is prominent in the Democratic affairs of Arlington County.

Patient of Asylum Identified in Jail

Man, Held Several Months in Rockville, Fled From St. Elizabeths.

Through the efforts of the identification bureau of the Montgomery County police at Rockville, Md., Joseph A. Merola, who for several months has been held at the Rockville Jail without being able to tell his true identity, has been identified as a former soldier who escaped from St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Policeman Theodore Vollten, in charge of the bureau, has been working on the attempt to solve the man's identity for more than a month. Failing to locate any of several friends that the man said he had at Leonardtown, Md., Vollten took a set of his fingerprints to the War Department and checked until he found he was a former soldier who had been committed to the hospital as insane and had escaped.

Merola yesterday attacked a fellow prisoner, Douglas Irvin, who was forced to defend himself and broke several bones in his hand in the struggle. Irvin was treated at the Montgomery County General Hospital while Merola was returned to St. Elizabeths. His home is in Des Moines, Iowa.

Man Horses Trampled Reported Near Death

Dennis Chase, of Hugheaville, Md., was reported to be dying last night at Emergency Hospital from injuries received Tuesday when he was caught and dragged beneath a runaway team near his home.

According to State Policeman C. C. Serman, Chase's horses ran away after his wagon was in collision with an auto driven by Herman Gepreng, of Bryantown, Md.

The BEST PICTURE GEORGE BANCROFT EVER MADE!
McCarthy...IMPARTIAL CRITIC OF MOTION PICTURE HERALD GOES OVER-BOARD IN HIS PRAISE FOR THIS PRODUCTION!!

LADY AND GENT: This is the best picture George Bancroft ever made. It is the finest production that has come from Paramount in many months. It's got everything that a good picture needs. Drama, romance, thrills, action, wonderful dialogue, great acting, comedy, suspense. It is full of laughter and there is more than one moment when your audiences will be choking back a sob and reaching for the old handkerchiefs. It's down to earth entertainment with a lot of human interest. It's a great tribute to Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt, who wrote and prepared the thoroughly believable story. It's a greater tribute to Stephen Roberts, who directed it with a feeling and understanding that brings out even the most inconsequential details of action and dialogue with telling effect. Best of all, it's a revelation of the real George Bancroft. In "Lady and Gent" he makes up for everything. He turns in a performance that surpasses everything he has done before.

2 SUSPECTS SEIZED IN MYSTERY ATTACK

Washington Men Are Held in Beating of Former Head of Finance Firm.

Two Washington men are being held by Montgomery County police in connection with the mysterious attack upon Daniel J. McGill, 28 years old, of 5711 Fifth street northwest, former president of the Columbia Finance Co., who was found unconscious Tuesday in Rockville, Md.

McGill apparently had been beaten and thrown from a machine into the street at Frederick avenue and Montgomery street, Rockville. He was taken to Georgetown Hospital where he was able to tell county police about the attack.

The men were arrested by Washington police and turned over to county police yesterday following the broadcasting of a lookout. They gave their names as Thomas G. McCorkle, 27, a former Washington policeman, and Ralph Beall, 30, also of Washington.

McGill was unable to give police a complete story and the men are being held until the wounded man is well enough to talk. They are at the Rockville Jail.

McGill was found about 8 o'clock in the morning by a colored iceman, who called police and the Rockville fire rescue squad. He was taken to the hospital by the rescue squad. At first thought to have suffered a fractured skull, it was said yesterday that X-ray photographs had shown that this was not so, although he was badly battered.

Teachers, Unpaid, Face Loss of Chicago Homes

Chicago, July 13 (A.P.).—Several hundred teachers and other Chicago public school employes—unpaid for many months—face the possible loss of their homes through foreclosures by the city which can not pay their salaries.

It was disclosed today in court that the indigent city has sued many of them for judgments on taxes long overdue because they have received no money from the city to pay them.

ALEXANDRIA PUSHES TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Alexandria is now conducting a campaign against traffic violations, particularly the habit of out-of-town motorists in disregarding stop signs. Many arrests are made daily for speeding, passing traffic lights and stop signs. The strict enforcement of the law was started Monday and all policemen have instructions to watch for traffic violators.

Complaints have been numerous lately about narrow escapes of pedestrians where they expect stop signs to be observed, and also at the changing of traffic lights.

The July meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held Tuesday night in the George Mason Hotel, when three members of the Charlottesville, Va., club, recently moved to Alexandria, were special guests. They were Miss Cyrle Higgenbothem, State recording secretary; Miss Anne Harrington and Mrs. Kathleen Dame. Other guests were Miss Melissa Gill and Miss Ruby Morley, also from Charlottesville; Mrs. Anna Hiser and her daughter, Mrs. D. C. Book, vice president of the club; Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president of the Alexandria unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Miss Mary Estelle Lewis, of Winchester.

Miss Lucy Graves, a past president of the club, and local chairman for the Tribune fresh air fund, spoke on the Americanization work being done by taking the children of foreign extraction into normal American homes to give them an insight into the home life of the country.

Music included vocal solos by Mrs. Evelyn Howard Sheridan and violin selections by Miss Grace Powell, both accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book.

Francis Gillum, 16 years old, colored, while diving off the Cameron street wharf yesterday, struck another boy under water, resulting in Gillum's death. Dr. C. A. Amos, city coroner, found the boy came to his death from a broken neck. He lived with his father at 501 First street.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Colonial Broadcasting Co., controlled by the Columbia Broadcasting Co., will start work shortly, on the construction of a transmitting station of colonial design, just [illegible] the Mount Vernon boulevard, near what is known as Slater's lane. The application for a permit will be considered by the zoning board of appeals at a meeting tonight.

Prof. Louis D. Bliss, president of the Bliss Electrical School of Washington, will speak on "Light" at the weekly luncheon of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club today in the George Mason Hotel.

Miss Lucy M. Graver, chairman of the Alexandria committee of the Tribune Fresh Air Fund, has called a meeting of that committee for 8 o'clock tonight in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church.

Arlington Rotarians Meet Today.

The Arlington Rotary Club will meet today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

KEEP OUT.

Revelations in Paris and London make it advisable for the United States to withdraw its tentative acceptance of an invitation to participate in the proposed international economic conference.

Exposure of the secret "gentlemen's agreement," which makes the Lausanne settlement with Germany dependent upon American cancellation of the debts, is now followed by the disclosure of an agreement between Great Britain and France which links them together in any debt negotiations with the United States. Although the agreement avoids mention of the debts, it provides that each government shall "avoid any action of the nature of discrimination by one country against the interests of the other." Premier Herriot asserts that this provision precludes a debt settlement with the United States by either country without the consent of the other.

The gentlemen's agreement and the Anglo-French compact are palpably aimed at the United States. Under the first, the creditors of Germany form a united front, requiring the United States to cancel all the debts as a condition precedent to cancellation of reparations. Under the second, the two principal debtors of the United States agree to make it impossible for the United States to deal separately with either. The question of "capacity to pay" is thus swept away by requiring the United States to deal with its debtors en bloc, without regard to their individual capacity to pay. This is an effort to concentrate the united influence of Europe upon the United States in behalf of outright cancellation of all debts.

These agreements are made preliminary to the proposed international economic conference. Although the State Department intimated some weeks ago that the United States would not consent to the consideration of reparations and debt questions at the conference, it is evident that Europe is planning to draw the United States into a conference in which the debt question will be the principal subject of discussion. The secret agreement makes the Lausanne concession to Germany a scrap of paper until the United States releases Germany's creditors. As the condition of Germany is the central factor of Europe's economic problem, it is obvious that the international conference is planned to bring about cancellation of the debts to America.

Congress has given notice of its refusal to reopen the question of debt reduction or cancellation. No American can properly attend an international conference dealing with this subject. Certainly no agreement made by American delegates would have any chance of approval by Congress.

Participation by the United States in a conference, even if debt questions were excluded, would now be a questionable proceeding, in view of the disclosure of secret and special compacts intended to solidify European countries against the United States. Who knows what additional secret bargains have been made, affecting economic questions, all framed for the advantage of Europe at the expense of the United States?

A secret agreement between Great Britain and France several years ago gave a setback to naval reduction agreements and impaired Anglo-American relations. That attempt to combine against the United States should have warned European politicians that they have nothing to gain by trying to overreach this country. Secret compacts are always obnoxious in international affairs, and almost invariably they bring down injurious consequences upon the parties making them. They are intolerable to the United States. European statesmen like Prime Minister MacDonald, who proclaim their trust in the United States, destroy American confidence in their sincerity when they are found to be the makers of secret agreements. Thus cordial co-operation for world betterment is made impossible.

In the circumstances the United States should not participate in the conference which has been planned by the individuals who have just signed secret agreements adverse to the United States.

ST. LAWRENCE POLITICS.

Virtual completion of the St. Lawrence waterway agreement between the United States and Canada is especially gratifying, in view of Gov. Roosevelt's attempt to make a political issue out of this great project. President Hoover has worked for many years to bring this enterprise to fruition. If the agreement is signed within the next fortnight, as is now expected, much of the credit for the active initiation of this $800,000,000 self-liquidating project will go to him.

The President very properly rejected Gov. Roosevelt's offer to confer on the final details of the agreement. The negotiations with Canada are entirely in the hands of the State Department, and no State government has any authority in the premises. It can be taken for granted that the rights of New York and all other States will be protected, and that their interests in the development of power on the St. Lawrence will be fully recognized.

Gov. Roosevelt's chief interest in the matter is the apportionment of costs between the Federal Government and New York State. In this question lie the seeds of a major political controversy. New York conceives of the St. Lawrence development as a great power project. Gov. Roosevelt is particularly interested in demonstrating that his State government can furnish an abundance of power to the people at prices lower than those charged by the so-called power trust. But New York has always opposed the ship canal, connecting the Atlantic with the Great Lakes, because it would divert traffic from the bottleneck of Manhattan.

On the other hand, President Hoover's chief interest is in providing a "seaway" that will make the markets of the world more accessible to the Middle West. To him the St. Lawrence project is an aid to agriculture and to American commerce. The development of power is incidental—a local affair to be handled by the States. Yet the power to be generated must be required to pay its equitable share of the construction costs.

The allocation of costs attributable to power and to navigation is an intricate task. Of course, Gov. Roosevelt is trying to keep New York's portion of the total as small as possible, because a small initial outlay would add to the apparent success of New York's proposed venture into the power business. The New York power authority estimates that the State should contribute from $113,000,000 to $132,000,000, but the State Department is not inclined to be that generous. There is no intention on the part of the Government to subsidize New York's power enterprise.

Unless he is merely seeking a political controversy on the St. Lawrence development, Gov. Roosevelt will be gratified with the prospective agreement. If the governor should be elected President in November, and the negotiations should remain uncompleted when he took office, he would be in an embarrassing situation. Having fostered the cause of his own State, it would be extremely difficult for him to assume an entirely judicial attitude toward the matter as President. This reason, if no other, should make Gov. Roosevelt think again before bringing this important project within the realm of partisan politics.

NOT A CAMPING GROUND.

The actions of a portion of the bonus army are becoming intolerable. The impudent assertion of one faction leader that his men would occupy the Capitol grounds until definite action was taken by Congress on the bonus is a threat that, futile as it is, can not be overlooked. Neither the veterans nor any other campers have a right to take up their abode about the Capitol or in any of the parks of the city. The presence of the bonus army on the Hill for the avowed purpose of forcing action for their special benefit would make such procedure impossible.

The veterans now in Washington are intelligent enough to know that all bonus bills are dead; that even Representative Patman's inexcusable encouragement in the shape of a new bill for payments to unemployed veterans stands no chance of passage. They should also be fair enough to know that they have no right to be asking for such preferential treatment when so many American citizens less able to care for themselves are in need. Provision is being made to care for all who are out of work through Federal assistance that will be given the States. Opportunity is also provided for all veterans to return to their homes, where they can receive their just share of this distribution. If the veterans will not now accept these generous offers, but elect to remain here, they will merely invite hardship and loss of public sympathy, making their hope of the bonus still more remote.

The authorities will be fully supported by public sentiment in demanding the departure of the veterans from the Capitol grounds. Any congregation of hundreds of persons persisting in occupying those grounds should be dispersed, whether veterans or not.

IMPERILING HOME RELIEF.

As passed by the Senate the home loan bank bill would create four major financial institutions for the aid of home owners. With a capital of $15,000,000 each, these institutions would render service similar to that now performed by the Federal Reserve banks. Their purpose would be to rediscount paper secured by real estate mortgages used in financing homes. Credit for home building would be made more available. People now in danger of losing their homes because of inability to meet their mortgage payments could be afforded relief.

Financiers contend that one weakness of the Federal Reserve system is that it serves only the needs of commerce and industry. Modernization of the credit facilities available to home owners has been too long delayed. President Hoover believes that his measure will not only ease the present crisis in home financing, but will put the entire real estate business on a more sound footing. Majorities in both houses of Congress take the same view.

Yet the home loan bank measure is endangered by the nostrum attached to it by Senator Borah. There is no more connection between the Glass-Borah inflation scheme and the home loan bill than there is between that measure and the Bingham beer bill. Senator Borah merely chose the home loan measure as the victim of his inflation scheme because it is a part of President Hoover's relief program, and its enactment seemed certain.

It is questionable whether President Hoover will feel justified in signing the home loan bill if it contains the inflation scheme when it reaches the White House. The President should not be asked to choose between denying relief to home owners and helping Mr. Borah to strike a blow at the Federal Reserve system. By all means let the conferees eliminate the Borah amendment, so that this essential measure will not be in jeopardy when it reaches President Hoover's desk.

FRENCH FINANCES.

After enjoying comparative immunity from its severest effects during the first two years of the depression, France is now feeling keenly the double pinch of reduced exports and a heavy decrease in government income. Premier Herriot hurried home from Lausanne to face the fight in the Chamber of Deputies on his budget plans, winning the contest for drastic economies. This was forced not only because of reduced income, but because the treasury has about exhausted its borrowing limit.

The French treasury, in common with most nations, has resorted to loans from the Bank of France and the discounting of bills at private banks, and this course doubtless will be continued, since the treasury issue of bonds is now within $26,000,000 of its limitation of $200,000,000, and its other borrowing facilities are not large. The first two months of the present fiscal year brought a government income of 361,000,000 francs against 528,000,000 for like months last year. It is this prospect of a serious deficit that has brought action for reduced expenditures and increased taxes.

In contrast to these budgetary troubles the gold coverage of the franc reached a new high last week, the stock of bullion now representing 76.11. The Paris bourse did not respond as was expected to what was at first considered a favorable outcome at Lausanne. The feeling appears to be quite general in European financial circles that London is profiting more than Paris from the present situation. The aggressive procedure in British financing, both governmental and private, is having its effect on the continent. London expects this to start a renewed flow of capital toward England, where broader investment facilities are always available.

THE NAME OF KELLY

By Benedict Fitzpatrick, in the New York Times.

It may surprise Edwin Manuel Kelly to know that his offending patronymic is in no real sense Irish, but is an English corruption of the title of the ancient Leinster gens of Ua Ceallaigh. The form is found nowhere in voluminous Irish annals and is a phonetic Cromwellian rendering first recorded by English amanuenses in grants when the Leinster territories and estates, which the defeated Ua Ceallaigh (Ua means grandson, Mac means son) or O'Kellys of Hy Maine, of Tiaquin, of Callagh, of Aughrim and of Meath had owned for over a thousand years, were sequestrated and deeded, without the payment of a penny, to needy Englishmen, and for the recent restoration of which to the rightful heirs the English government is at present demanding heavy annuities.

If Kelly and similar widespread names have been associated in recent times with the troubles of a disinherited, harassed and libeled people, those names in an earlier day were long famous in British and European annals. The O'Kellys of Hy Maine possess a many-branched pedigree, going back at least 1,500 years. They had established famous schools in Arran and Connaught before the first Stone Age Englishman looked in wonder on the Roman ruins of Britain. They were among the first to send missionary schoolmen to these heathen immigrants from Schleswig and to erect schools in Mayo where mendicant Saxon students might be supported gratis. Their pivotal ancestor was Maine Mor (the Great), and from him to them descended the title of "Princes of Hy Maine."

"The descendants of Maine Mor," it is recorded in the Annals of the Four Masters, "had many privileges and immunities from the Kings of Connaught and their successors, viz., they were hereditary marshals or generals of Connaught armies; they possessed and enjoyed the third part of all the strongholds and seaport towns in the province; also the third part of all the prizes and wreck of the sea, and of all hidden treasures found under the ground; and all silver and gold mines and other metals belonged to them, together with a third part of all eric or reprisals gained and recovered by the Kings of Connaught from other provinces for wrongs received; with other like enumerated in the ancient chronicles."

The O'Kellys represent the old ruling blood of the British Isles with accessible titles to back their claims no English dukedom can match. "The real aristocracy of these islands," wrote Swift, "is to be found on the coal quays of Dublin."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A GOLF BALL TALKS.

The little golf ball on the tee
Looked up and said these things to me:
"Why do you wiggle so and twist
And set your teeth and clinch your fist,
And dive and lunge and blindly strike,
When you may take what time you like,
Since from this spot I can not go
Until you choose to launch the blow?

"I'm fixed. I can not dodge or stir,
Then why the haste to club me, sir?
And why that dismal look of fear?
Are you afraid I won't be here
If you more slowly should proceed?
You'll calmly clip a growing weed
The passing summer breezes away,
But here immovable I stay.

"What is it makes you lift your head,
And what about me do you dread?
I do not bite or scratch with claws;
I'm quite content to serve your cause.
So viciously at me you whack
I think you fear I may strike back.
In all the years you've tried to play
You've never seen me run away.

"So still upon the ground I sit
I'll vow I am not hard to hit,
But you look down on me with eyes
In which the light of terror lies.
You grunt and groan and fume and fret,
Lunge hastily, and quite forget
That you may take what time you will
And I shall here be waiting still."

His Profession of Friendship Means Little if He Fires Your Barn.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is a warning. It warns you against an enemy that threatens the ruination of your country. It isn't an exaggeration, but a simple statement of fact.

The ordinary American, whatever his faults, is an honest man and a patriot. He is proud of his country. He feels an obligation to share in the solving of its problems.

In time of war or panic he thinks up schemes to save the country. His own affairs no longer seem important. He is filled with a zeal for service. In short, he is a good citizen and gladly accepts the obligations of citizenship.

But this enthusiastic interest in public affairs is temporary. It ends with the emergency. And when conditions again are normal, the ordinary citizen returns to his job and his neighborhood interests and leaves the management of public affairs to those who make it a profession.

That is the beginning of danger.

The ordinary citizen, being honest and sincere, judges others by his own standards. He isn't suspicious. He isn't even sensibly cautious.

And thus he is easily fooled by sinister and predatory individuals whose only interest in the country is the easy money to be got from it.

These predatory ones do not lose interest in public affairs when a crisis is past. They take advantage of an emergency to open new paths to the public treasury, and they work quietly to keep these paths open when the emergency is over.

Treasury leaks seldom are stopped. Men who profit by them work together and combine their influence for mutual protection. They are professionals, somewhat scornful of mere lay citizens, and their profession is milking the country.

One-tenth of the population now lives at public expense, and this tenth is growing in power. It has learned how to intimidate Congress. And it will demand more and more, until at last the Nation is bankrupt, unless those who pay the bill unite to protect themselves.

If an enemy nation should conquer America, in what way would the ordinary citizen suffer? He would be taxed unmercifully to pay a great indemnity. He would be punished by the foreign enemy precisely as he now is punished by leeches of his own race.

Then why hesitate to call these leeches enemies? They are enemies of every property owner and wage earner, and they will bleed America white unless honest patriots unite to drive them out.

PRO AND CON

Statistician Borah.

New York Times.

The United States Senate has produced many extraordinary statisticians, tossing figures about with delightful abandon. One of the chief "estimators" is Senator Brookhart. But it would now appear that Senator Borah wishes to snatch the chaplet from the Iowa brow.

When arguing the other day for a great increase in the issue of currency, Senator Borah quietly remarked: "It is now estimated that this depression has cost us from $150,000,000,000 to $200,000,000,000." It did not seem to occur to him that this meant the destruction of something like two-thirds of our entire national wealth.

The latest estimate of it made this year by the Industrial Conference Board was $329,000,000,000, as of 1930. This meant a drop of less than 9 per cent in the course of the disastrous year of 1929. But Senator Borah lightly accepts an imaginary drop of 60 per cent.

Congressional Elections.

Detroit News.

At the moment political interest centers in the outcome of the presidential election. Who is to be the next President is a question that looms large in the minds of the people. But great as that question is, there is another that more immediately involves the discretion of the individual voter; that is, "Who shall be my representative in Congress?"

Now is the time for every conscientious citizen to ask himself, "Am I satisfied with the type of men elected to Congress?"

Welcome Respite.

Indianapolis Star.

Beer as a Home Loan Rider.

Topeka Capital.

Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, is a scholar in politics, but seems to lack something in good taste. He has attached his bill for beer to the Hoover home loan bill as a rider. If the appeal of liquor was not powerful enough or wide enough the Connecticut statesman sought to give it support by tying it up to a more popular measure. But why select a bill for the building of homes? There is an incongruity between the idea of liquor and the idea of home building and holding families together that suggests to the normal mind that Senator Bingham's bill is out of place as a rider on the home loan bill.

Poor Versus Rich.

Springfield Republican.

President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt offer an unusual contrast in their early experiences and circumstances. It is heightened by the positions they now occupy on economic problems. Mr. Hoover, today the representative of greater conservatism, was a poor man's son in rural Iowa and then an orphan, beginning to work his way in Oregon at an age at which Roosevelt, now assuming to champion "the forgotten man," was beginning to taste the enjoyments of ancestral wealth and culture.

Let Congress Adjourn.

Belle Plaine (Minn.) Herald.

Fear has been the great agency of destruction of values during these trying two years. This fear has been engendered from many sources, but primarily it has been fear of Congress—of what it had done, was doing and might do. The whole country is hoping for a quick adjournment of Congress as the one chance of revival of public confidence.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Says Buses Should Be Allowed on Mount Vernon Memorial Highway—Private Cars Should Be Limited as to Number and Speed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is with great astonishment that I see in the newspapers that local authorities in Alexandria and Arlington County are opposed to having scheduled bus traffic on the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, and insist that the boulevard should be kept "for pleasure seekers alone."

Truly this proposition takes one's breath away! That an expensive boulevard, paid for from the public funds, and designed through honoring George Washington to call the attention of as many people as possible to his exalted character, and so do something to redeem this God-forsaken generation—that this boulevard should be reserved for private automobiles is surely an astonishing proposition.

It seems more appropriate to have the number of automobiles permitted on it at one time, and especially their speed, put at a very low figure, while buses would be run on it on schedule time and at frequent intervals and a moderate rate. This arrangement would be in the interests of the people who paid for it, by letting as many as can get the benefit of cheap transport to Mount Vernon.

KINSWOMAN OF WASHINGTON.

Federal Employe Says Members of Congress Earn What They Get, and More.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter recently published by you signed "On the Roof" was intended to be somewhat facetious, I am sure, but in so far as it was serious I would like to answer it. How many members of Congress pass the recess "having a good time," no one, of course, can say, but I venture to guess that a majority of them do not pass the time that way. No one outside has any idea of the variety and complexity of details of the problems which must be grasped to a degree in order that a legislator may write, speak, or vote with any degree of intelligence on the countless questions which arise. Certainly there is little time during the session, with its hours on the floor, in the office, at committee meetings and hearings, for reading. A legislator must put in a good deal of time during recess in study of various kinds.

As a Government clerk, whose modest salary has just been made even more modest, I honestly believe that a large number of members of Congress earn many times what Uncle Sam pays them year in and year out. If there are those who do not, the remedy is certainly in the hands of "the peepul."

ELEANOR ADAMS.

"Virginia Democrat" Denounced as Neither Democrat Nor Virginian.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to protest about one of your contributors—the "Virginia Democrat"—who enjoys the courtesy of your columns.

In the first place he is a Democrat of doubtful vintage, and personally, I doubt his Virginia affiliations.

I call myself a Democrat and I live in Virginia. As a Democrat and as a Virginian, I disapprove of every thing that person writes. He reflects discredit upon the grand State of Virginia, and his ideas certainly are not in accord with Virginia Democracy.

I am asking you if it would not be possible to have this person sign his name or get himself a new nom de plume.

Pitiful Plea of a Brave Wife and Mother Who Needs Help.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: My invalid husband, two delicate daughters and three younger children, a daughter, 16; son, 14, and daughter, 11, and myself are in destitute circumstances in a land of plenty.

I know there are people reading this who throw away every day stuff that my family and I would be so glad to get. We live in a tiny three-room log cabin in the country. A man lets us have the cabin rent free. School begins in two weeks. If I can't get clothes my children will have to stay at home. Please help me, and may God bless you.

Soap Company Sets a Fine Example for Railroads in Cutting Down Swollen Salaries.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An Associated Press item in your issue of July 12 informed us that a soap company had cut the pay of its management 50 per cent and the employes 10 per cent. That looks like a trend toward justice.

The item should have been put on the front page with a big headline running clear across.

If the salaries of some of our railroad officials were cut about 500 per cent, the companies could operate just as efficiently and escape having to get Congress to enact special legislation in order to make loans to keep them from bankruptcy.

W. B. WITHERSPOON.

Harry Flood Byrd an Illustrious Son of Berkeley County, W. Va.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Very few people know that Harry Flood Byrd, former Governor of Virginia, was born in Berkeley County, W. Va. The circumstances pertaining to his birth were accidental, perhaps, but that does not disguise the fact that West Virginia can claim him as one of Berkeley County's illustrious sons.

While his mother was on a visit to Dr. James McSherry's at Martinsburg, Harry Flood Byrd was born, for he once said in a letter to a friend, "I was born at Martinsburg, W. Va., at Dr. McSherry's in the house next to Newton Baker's."

PSYCHOLOGY IS HELD INCA EMPIRE'S BASIS

Psychology was a prime factor of the Inca rulers in building up a socialistic state at a period in world history when the existence even of a feudal empire would have been a miracle, Dr. Victor A. BeLaude, of the University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru, and the University of Miami, told the conference on Hispanic-American affairs yesterday at George Washington University.

Dr. BeLaude pointed out that the Inca rulers understood that the only way to get Indians to work was collectively, on a team work basis. They are individually lazy and left alone, remain idle, he added.

Factors which contributed to the success of the Inca empire, as cited by the lecturer, included: The lack of the sense of individual liberty in the Peruvian primitive races, which is still observable today; the culture was entirely agricultural; the pre-existence of village communities which the Incas were able to organize into a great empire; the strict military character of the empire which enabled them to preserve their social system; the extreme religious character of the empire arising from the fact that the Inca rulers were considered sons of the sun and were worshipped as gods.

The Inca ruling class combined the ability of rulers of Asia with the sense of display of the Babylonians and the constructive ability of the Romans, according to Dr. BeLaude.

Characterizing as absurd the movement today to exalt the Inca institutions and policies, the Peruvian scholar asserted that this movement coincides with Soviet propaganda. He described as equally absurd to attempt to establish a parallel between the communistic Russia and the socialistic Inca empire.

Dr. DeLaude expressed belief that the economic psychology of the Indians is changing. Their endurance, ability and responsibility are testified to by large companies that employ them, he reported. He added, however, that foreign companies which employ the Indians must accept the laws that exist everywhere in behalf of workers if the conditions of the Indians is to change.

"It will be a serious indictment of ourselves and of foreign capital if we are not able to do what they did," he said.

Furlough Tangle Blocks School Staffs' Pay Day

Employes of the public school system will not receive checks tomorrow, the regular pay day, because Maj. R. O. Wilmarth, assistant superintendent in charge of the pay roll, deems it unwise to make up the pay roll until definite instructions are received on application of the furlough to school workers.

Maj. Wilmarth explained that some school employes took a "vacation" in the belief that when they returned to work the furlough law would not affect their leave. District officials have questioned the legality of this.

300 School Vacancies Await Hoover's Action

Authority to fill 300 teachers' positions in the District school system is to be asked of President Hoover, as under a new law the vacancies can be filled only on approval of the Chief Executive.

The vacancies are due to deaths and retirements. The list of eligible candidates has been exhausted and temporary teachers have been relieved from duty.

The club was invited to use the ship for its luncheon by Commander Louis J. Gulliver. The Rev. John C. Palmer will speak on "Friendship for France". The Navy Band Orchestra will play.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

The juice from almost any of the summer fruits—red and black raspberries, blackberries, late cherries, logan berries and plums—can be bottled with very little trouble, as well as grape juice and apple juice or cider.

These fruit juices are delicious for making fruitades and punches, and also for coloring and flavoring jellied fruit desserts and salads. In bottling them, the most important point is to use a low temperature, never actually boiling the fruit or the juice after it is extracted, says Mrs. Fanny W. Yeatman, a food specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. "Boiling changes both the color and the flavor of a fruit juice," says Mrs. Yeatman, "and while the result may not be unpleasant it is different from the flavor of fresh fruit. Some heating is necessary, of course, to extract the juice from most fruits, although the juice of ripe grapes can be extracted by the cold press method. Most berries and other small fruits give a much larger yield and a much clearer juice if the washed, drained, and mashed fruit is heated quickly just to the boiling point, and then removed at once from the fire. By heating in this way, the framework of the fruit is softened so that a large amount of rich-flavored, deep-colored juice can be extracted without much pressure."

The first step in bottling fruit juices is to pick over the fruit carefully and wash it. This can be done either by placing it in a wire basket or colander and washing it with a light spray of water until the water runs clean, or by putting the fruit in a bowl of water and lifting it out gently to another bowl of water, using the fingers as a sieve. Do this two or three times until there is no dirt or sand in the bottom of the bowl, but do not let the fruit stand in the water.

To extract the juice from berries and other small fruits, mash a small portion of the washed fruit in a kettle and then stir while heating it quickly just to the boiling point. Remove at once from the fire. Strain through a heavy jelly bag. The juice that runs from the bag without any pressure is called "free" juice. This is generally clearer than juice obtained by pressure. It may be bottled separately or mixed with the juice extracted under pressure.

In extracting from the less juicy fruits, a little longer cooking at the simmering point is required, and a small amount of water is needed—about ¼ cup to 1 pound of fruit.

If the pulp seems to have considerable flavor left after extracting the juice, it can be made into jam or butter.

It is not necessary to sweeten fruit juices at the time of bottling, but sugar may be added in the proportion of 1 cup to a gallon of juice. The sugar helps to retain the color and improves the flavor of the juice, but is not necessary for preservation. When used, it should be added to the strained juice and dissolved by stirring just before the juice is reheated for bottling.

After the juice is strained and the sugar added, reheat to the simmering point (185 degrees F.). If a thermometer is not available, heat the juice in a covered double boiler for about 10 minutes, or until thoroughly heated through. Pour into hot sterilized bottles, filling them to within 1 inch from the top to allow for expansion if crown caps are used for sealing, or 2 inches if corks are used.

Bottels must be sealed tight before they are processed. Then put them on a rack or false bottom in a large container of warm water, lying on their sides and not more than three layers deep. Do not crowd the bottles. The water should come at least 2 inches over the top layer of bottles. Heat the water to the simmering point (185 degrees F.) and hold at this temperature for 10 minutes. Remove at once and cool.

If corks are used, dip the cork and top of the bottle in semiliquid paraffin or sealing wax. Clamped caps need no further attention. Label and store in a cool, dry, dark place.

PSYCHOLOGY IS HELD INCA EMPIRE'S BASIS

Psychology was a prime factor of the Inca rulers in building up a socialistic state at a period in world history when the existence even of a feudal empire would have been a miracle, Dr. Victor A. BeLaude, of the University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru, and the University of Miami, told the conference on Hospanic-American affairs yesterday at George Washington University.

Dr. BeLaude pointed out that the Inca rulers understood that the only way to get Indians to work was collectively, on a team work basis. They are individually lazy and left alone, remain idle, he added.

Factors which contributed to the success of the Inca empire, as cited by the lecturer, included: The lack of the sense of individual liberty in the Peruvian primitive races, which is still observable today; the culture was entirely agricultural; the pre-existence of village communities which the Incas were able to organize into a great empire; the strict military character of the empire which enabled them to preserve their social system; the extreme religious character of the empire arising from the fact that the Inca rulers were considered sons of the sun and were worshipped as gods.

The Inca ruling class combined the ability of rulers of Asia with the sense of display of the Babylonians and the constructive ability of the Romans, according to Dr. BeLaude.

Characterizing as absurd the movement today to exalt the Inca institutions and policies, the Peruvian scholar asserted that this movement coincides with Soviet propaganda. He described as equally absurd to attempt to establish a parallel between the communistic Russia and the socialistic Inca empire.

Dr. DeLaude expressed belief that the economic psychology of the Indians is changing. Their endurance, ability and responsibility are testified to by large companies that employ them, he reported. He added, however, that foreign companies which employ the Indians must accept the laws that exist everywhere in behalf of workers if the conditions of the Indians is to change.

"It will be a serious indictment of ourselves and of foreign capital if we are not able to do what they did," he said.

Furlough Tangle Blocks School Staffs' Pay Day

Employes of the public school system will not receive checks tomorrow, the regular pay day, because Maj. R. O. Wilmarth, assistant superintendent in charge of the pay roll, deems it unwise to make up the pay roll until definite instructions are received on application of the furlough to school workers.

Maj. Wilmarth explained that some school employes took a "vacation" in the belief that when they returned to work the furlough law would not affect their leave. District officials have questioned the legality of this.

300 School Vacancies Await Hoover's Action

Authority to fill 300 teachers' positions in the District school system is to be asked of President Hoover, as under a new law the vacancies can be filled only on approval of the Chief Executive.

The vacancies are due to deaths and retirements. The list of eligible candidates has been exhausted and temporary teachers have been relieved from duty.

Other guest will be Rear Admiral H. V. Butler, commandant of the Navy Yard, and Rear Admiral D. C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy. The club was invited to use the ship for its luncheon by Commander Louis J. Gulliver. The Rev. John C. Palmer will speak on "Friendship for France". The Navy Band Orchestra will play.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

The juice from almost any of the summer fruits—red and black raspberries, blackberries, late cherries, logan berries and plums—can be bottled with very little trouble, as well as grape juice and apple juice or cider.

These fruit juices are delicious for making fruitades and punches, and also for coloring and flavoring jellied fruit desserts and salads. In bottling them, the most important point is to use a low temperature, never actually boiling the fruit or the juice after it is extracted, says Mrs. Fanny W. Yeatman, a food specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. "Boiling changes both the color and the flavor of a fruit juice," says Mrs. Yeatman, "and while the result may not be unpleasant it is different from the flavor of fresh fruit. Some heating is necessary, of course, to extract the juice from most fruits, although the juice of ripe grapes can be extracted by the cold press method. Most berries and other small fruits give a much larger yield and a much clearer juice if the washed, drained, and mashed fruit is heated quickly just to the boiling point, and then removed at once from the fire. By heating in this way, the framework of the fruit is softened so that a large amount of rich-flavored, deep-colored juice can be extracted without much pressure."

The first step in bottling fruit juices is to pick over the fruit carefully and wash it. This can be done either by placing it in a wire basket or colander and washing it with a light spray of water until the water runs clean, or by putting the fruit in a bowl of water and lifting it out gently to another bowl of water, using the fingers as a sieve. Do this two or three times until there is no dirt or sand in the bottom of the bowl, but do not let the fruit stand in the water.

To extract the juice from berries and other small fruits, mash a small portion of the washed fruit in a kettle and then stir while heating it quickly just to the boiling point. Remove at once from the fire. Strain through a heavy jelly bag. The juice that runs from the bag without any pressure is called "free" juice. This is generally clearer than juice obtained by pressure. It may be bottled separately or mixed with the juice extracted under pressure.

In extracting from the less juicy fruits, a little longer cooking at the simmering point is required, and a small amount of water is needed—about ¼ cup to 1 pound of fruit.

If the pulp seems to have considerable flavor left after extracting the juice, it can be made into jam or butter.

It is not necessary to sweeten fruit juices at the time of bottling, but sugar may be added in the proportion of 1 cup to a gallon of juice. The sugar helps to retain the color and improves the flavor of the juice, but is not necessary for preservation. When used, it should be added to the strained juice and dissolved by stirring just before the juice is reheated for bottling.

After the juice is strained and the sugar added, reheat to the simmering point (185 degrees F.). If a thermometer is not available, heat the juice in a covered double boiler for about 10 minutes, or until thoroughly heated through. Pour into hot sterilized bottles, filling them to within 1 inch from the top to allow for expansion if crown caps are used for sealing, or 2 inches if corks are used.

Bottels must be sealed tight before they are processed. Then put them on a rack or false bottom in a large container of warm water, lying on their sides and not more than three layers deep. Do not crowd the bottles. The water should come at least 2 inches over the top layer of bottles. Heat the water to the simmering point (185 degrees F.) and hold at this temperature for 10 minutes. Remove at once and cool.

If corks are used, dip the cork and top of the bottle in semiliquid paraffin or sealing wax. Clamped caps need no further attention. Label and store in a cool, dry, dark place.

About the Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

FOR the benefit of those to whom the Union Station is more conveniently located than the Hoover Airport, it may be divulged that George Brent, the new leading man who is setting feminine movie fans all atwitter and agog throughout the length and breadth of the land, and Loretta Young, the talented young actress who has been doing the same thing to the male cinemaddicts for these several years now, will arrive in Washington from New York this evening aboard the Congressional Limited, due at 7:50 o'clock and extremely apt to be on time.

While it has been generally bruited about that Miss Young and Mr. Brent would arrive in the Capital by plane—having traveled most of the distance East from the Coast by that method—latest word received by the Warner Brothers executives in this city was as above. Since they begin a week of joint personal appearances at the Earle tomorrow, this may be construed as evidence that whatever skit they are to present is already prepared and not in need of protracted rehearsal.

When pressed as to whether it was planned to meet Mr. Brent and Miss Young at the station with a brass band, Mr. William C. Ewing, of the Warner publicity department, was of the opinion that while a brass band might possibly do for Miss Young, what with all the reports going around, Miss Chatterton returning from Europe soon and one thing and another he was afraid it would have to be a gold band for Mr. Brent! Didja ever?

It will be of interest to a wide circle of his friends in the Capital, that Charlie Raymond, formerly managing director of the Rialto Theater here, and subsequently a Loew manager in Baltimore, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Rochester, is at present engaged in a six-week intensive study of British methods in London, England, preliminary to taking over the management of the Loew enterprises in Johannesburg, South Africa. Well, Charlie's been 'most everywhere else!

Fred Astaire, who with his sister made up the famous dancing team that for years entertained London, New York and points West, upon landing in New York yesterday from Europe to perfect plans for his own appearance alone in a fall production, made it plain that Adele is through with the stage and that the Duchess of Cavendish did not oppose her marriage to Lord Cavendish, second son of the Duke of Cavendish, the duchess being absent from her daughter-in-law's presentation at court solely as a result of illness. So now you know.

Senorita Conchita Montenegro, star of the "On the Riviera" revue, closing tonight at Loew's Fox, with her sister, Senorita Justa Montenegro, was the guest of Senor Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas, Spanish Ambassador to the United States, at the embassy yesterday.

Next week's barrage of attractions in the downtown, first-run sector, before we forget it, will be as follows: Earle, Claudette Colbert and Clive Brook in "The Man From Yesterday," and George Brent and Loretta Young, in person; Loew's Fox, Warren William and Maureen O'Sullivan in "Skyscraper Souls," and Yorke and King in "Curiosities" revue, with Wesley Eddy; RKO-Keith's, opening Saturday, Edmund Lowe, Evelyn Brent and Constance Cummings in "Attorney for the Defense;" Palace, George Bancroft and Wynne Gibson in "Lady and Gent;" Metropolitan, Arthur Wontner in "The Missing Rembrandt;" Columbia, Ken Maynard in "Hell-Fire Austin."

Glen Echo Park, these warm days, is reaping the rewards that are the just deserts of any well-conducted al fresco amusement resort, boasting one of the most perfectly appointed swimming pools in the country. All of the amusement devices are running full blast and the ride out along the high banks of the Potomac in itself is cooling.

By the way, isn't it about time someone was referring to Washington as the perfect summer resort? Only about 105 at the kiosk yesterday!

Use of Foreign Labor In Shipyards Opposed

Newport News, Va., July 13 (A.P.).—Opposition to the employment of foreign workmen on Government work in American shipyards was expressed here yesterday in a resolution adopted at the final session of the Virginia department convention of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Treasury Calls for Bids On Short-Term Bills

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills yesterday announced an issue of $75,000,000 worth of Treasury 91-day bills dated July 20, 1932, in denominations ranging from $1,000 to $1,000,000.

Tenders will be received at the Federal Reserve Banks and branches until Monday, July 18. The bills will be sold on a discount basis to highest bidders and will bear no interest.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A delightful summer frock of printed silk in "little peas" effect, showing a white lacquered flower on the shoulder. And a blue woolen tailleur with discreet touches at pockets and cuffs. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

NEW YORK, July 13.—Today is a most historical one, celebrated with proper fervor in the way that only Gallic fervor can be expressed. Bastille Day, something like our Fourth of July, but far more significant to the French than our Fourth, unfortunately.

Once upon a time, and not so very long ago, all fashionable Paris had to be out of Paris after the "Grande Semaine," or final "big" week of the social season, celebrated the last week in June. In fact, so important was it to flee to seashore or mountains at the close of this famous week that those who remained were given to closing their shutters and using the servants' entrance to make it seem as though they had left town! Now things are changed, and it has become increasingly chic in the last few seasons to remain in Paris for the Fourteenth of July, Bastille Day, and then to go. It is even no longer considered a breach of social form not to go at all, alas for the resorts! But generally, yes, there must be a very, very good reason for the entire family to remain in Paris for the summer. The noteworthy lack of American tourists that used to descend upon Paris each summer like a horde of gold-scattering locusts having become practically nonexistent, some patriotic Parisians have cheerfully announced that since France has become for Frenchmen, they find Paris quite delightful in the summer! Apart from that, though Monsieur must remain in Paree, surely Madame and the children will leave, after today? Leaving poor papa to console himself as best he can with such poor folk as must likewise remain in the city for the summer.

* * * *

Better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make a darling beach hat, a bag that matches it, and a beach dress. You will want to make at least the hat, I promise you—and I promise also that it is the easiest thing to make you can imagine. You don't have to be at all expert with the needle, either. If you haven't time to sit down and sew—though you will have, on your vacation—well, give the leaflet to your maid or dressmaker and tell them to make it for you—it meaning any one of the three beach things in the leaflet.

* * * *

Bernard et Cie and their practical models! I just received the rough sketch of the summer frock and the early fall tailleur I sketched for you today, and hastened to "interpretate" them for you. The dress is printed silk in little dots, which the French call "little peas," and the suit is blue woolen, with chic in its cut and trimming. No-yes?

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:35 a. m. to 11:50 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:20 p. m.

A nervy atmosphere will prevail on July 14, and there will be much ado about nothing. A fatiguing and fruitless time. Errors of judgment in business and the malicious influence of a "catty" acquaintance are the two outstanding dangers of the day. Restraint, tact and caution are called for.

The child born on this July 14 will have all its wits about it and will be a handful of mischief. It will be fearless, have a love of battle, and possess a nimble tongue. To be seen and not heard is not the role which it will ever play in life. It will be very affectionate, but able to hate with a real passion.

You, if born on July 14, are a bit of a diamond in the rough, particularly so if a man. You are hard, although your hardness is often tempered with kindness, and your roughness displaced by tenderness. Strength and obstinacy are your two sustaining qualities. You will lead your own life in spite of any and all human connections, and will remain very individualistic. Your virtues are many but your graces are few.

There is nothing in you which is not evident to the whole world. Your sense of justice and loyalty can absolutely be counted upon. Your methods are direct, your speech is blunt and you do nothing in a mincing way. You are admired greatly, or thoroughly disliked, probably through fear or jealousy.

If you be a woman, you are thoroughly effeminite in many of your tastes and manners, but you take a man's attitude toward many things, and your most understanding friends will not be among those of your own sex. You are too capable to ever be a clinging vine, and will probably always be a tower of strength to others. You are both intelligent and intellectual, and your interests extend beyond the horizon of your home or home duties. July 14th women are pictured as active civic or church workers and leaders of community affairs. You would never be a neglectful mother.

Successful people born on July 14:

1. W. Herbert Abbott, leather merchant.
2. Olive Borden, film artist.
3. Arthur Capper, senator.
4. Louis M. Davenport, hotel man.
5. William H. Burr, engineer.
6. Paul B. Cravath, lawyer.

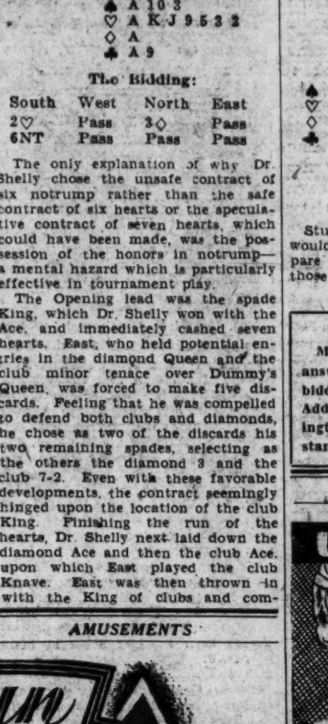
THE PSEUDO-SQUEEZE.

WHEN a player at the Contract table is forced to make five discards, it requires the drawing of correct inferences and the extracting of every bit of information from the fall of the cards around the table in order to determine what cards to hold to defeat the contract, if that is a possibility. There is a form of squeeze which sometimes results successfully that is not a true squeeze, because the Declarer is not in possession of the card which the defending player fears he has. This play, which often will work successfully even against strong opposition, has been given the name of the pseudo-squeeze.

An illustration of its success in a recent tournament was sent me by Dr. I. H. Shelly, of Norristown, Pa. Dr. Shelly held the South cards on the following hand:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♡	Pass	3◇	Pass
6NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

The only explanation of why Dr. Shelly chose the unsafe contract of six notrump rather than the safe contract of six hearts or the speculative contract of seven hearts, which could have been made, was the possession of the honors in notrump—a mental hazard which is particularly effective in tournament play.

The Opening lead was the spade King, which Dr. Shelly won with the Ace, and immediately cashed seven hearts. East, who held potential entries in the diamond Queen and the club minor tenace over Dummy's Queen, was forced to make five discards. Feeling that he was compelled to defend both clubs and diamonds, he chose as two of the discards his two remaining spades, selecting as the others the diamond 3 and the club 7-2. Even with these favorable developments, the contract seemingly hinged upon the location of the club King. Finishing the run of the hearts, Dr. Shelly next laid down the diamond Ace and then the club Ace, upon which East played the club Knave. East was then thrown in with the King of clubs and compelled to lead into Dummy's diamond tenace for the tricks that made the contract.

While East was faced with a very difficult situation regarding the choice of discards, he should have seen the end-play coming and, bared the diamond Queen at all hazards and saved the spade as an exit card. Had he thus played, the pseudo-squeeze could not have proved effective.

As a matter of scientific interest, it might be pointed out that the heart Grand Slam can actually be made on this hand, as the losing club may be discarded on the diamond King and both losing spades ruffed with Dummy's hearts. In the tournament in which the hand was dealt, however, no players reached the heart Grand Slam.

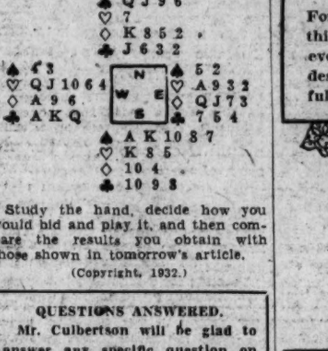
TODAY'S POINTER.

The pseudo-squeeze is not a true squeeze, but is a term used to designate a play where one of the opponents, either through inability to read the Declarer's holding or through inattention to the play of the cards, is unable to make the correct selection of a discard.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

SEVERAL summers ago a dusky coat of tan was the accepted mode and there were very few women who did not allow Old Sol to get up and at them, darkening the face by several shades. Then, last summer romantic pallor was the decree of the high and mightys. The then-reigning influence of the fast-forgotten Empress Eugenie was said to be responsible for the negative attitude to suntan.

This year the question pops up once more—to tan or not to tan. Happily, the subject seems to be left for the individual to settle. Which is as it should be.

Be Individual.

Be individual. Follow your own wishes in the matter. Pay no attention to what cousin Jane or Aunt Sue or your neighbors are doing. And it matters not whether you tanned last year or not. Start a new chapter this summer. Be yourself.

And study your type. If you are the fair, frail delicate type with porcelain quality to your skin and look your best in pink and white splendor, then hide your face from the sun and avoid having the skin darkened. That porcelain quality, by the way, is especially in keeping with the cotton frocks, organdies and soft pastel silks that are being featured this summer.

If, on the other hand, you are the sporty, carefreee, athletic type to whom a coat of tan is very becoming, let Old Sol do his stuff; but remember to take it in moderate doses. I must warn you not to attempt to acquire a coat of tan in a single sitting. It can't be done. Not without running the risk of acquiring a painful sunburn and a crop of freckles, at any rate.

If you start the sunning slowly, there'll be no regrets. No heavy, coarse quality to the skin, no open pores, no sun wrinkles (there is such a variety you know).

Whether you are going in for sun tan or not, be guided by your duty to beauty. Keep your skin fresh and firm and above all preserve the smooth, delicate, transparent texture that youth (or the daily care that bespeaks beauty wisdom) is heir to. Use the necessary protective creams, lotions, powders before going outdoors.

Speaking of freckles—the best way to cope with them is to prevent them. My bulletin "How to Deal With and Dim Freckles" will help you. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SAVE YOUR SKIN.

ONE of the several duties of the skin is to protect the underlying tissues against the harmful effect of sunlight, for sunlight, like every other good medicine, is harmful and even fatal in overdoses. Any protecting agency is capable of being harmed by that which it protects against. Sunlight is capable of doing considerable harm to the skin. Physicians recognize a disorder which they call "eczema solare." It is a variety of dermatitis which is caused by exposure to sun ray, and especially a section of the ray which is toward the violet end of the spectrum.

There are various ways of protecting against it. The most manifest is keeping away from the light or keeping the light away by staying in the shade, walking on the shady side of the street, using parasols, wearing hats that shut out light, wearing neck coverings and long sleeves.

There are preparations to be applied to the skin which have some efficiency. Certain creams have some protective power. Those that contain the napthol sulphonic acid series of sodium salts are in some measure protective. There are preparations of this character on the market purchasable in stores that sell toilet supplies. Even commonplace, but not humble rouge is credited with some protective capacity. Quinine powders and creams, theoretically, are protective. The inexperienced should be warned against petting parties following the use of quinine cream.

Those who are subject to sunlight eczema are warned to eat only a hot weather diet during the season of excess sunlight. Such a diet consists principally of salads, but without the usual oil and spice dressings, fruits, vegetables, sour milks and tart beverages.

There is a chemical called porphyrin which is probably manufactured by the skin and excreted by the kidneys. It is possible to test for this substance, both as to its presence and quantity. Physicians have, and still entertain hope that porphyrin may serve as a practical guide in managing skin troubles due to light. A skin that is unduly sensitive to light might make more or less porphyrin than another. Variation in this substance might show that a skin was getting too light or too much. If a burn had occurred a similar examination might indicate its degree, because sunburn is very slow in developing.

But so far nothing has been worked out. Trial and error are the only yardstick.

HOW TO REDUCE.

J. S. writes: Is there any way of reducing a rather large abdomen, recently developed, in a man 46 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, and 175 pounds in weight? He is a barber by trade and gets practically no exercise. Should one of the three meals a day be eliminated?

REPLY.

This man is overweight. Much of the excess fat is in the abdomen, and the abdominal muscles are flabby. To reach these three causes of the deformity the man must proceed along three lines. The abdomen must be reduced, some fat must be shifted from the abdomen, and the tone of the abdominal muscles must be improved.

To reduce he must eat about one-half as many calories as he has been eating. It does not matter whether he eats them at one meal or six. Second, the abdomen must be made an active zone. Fat is laid down in quiet places.

Third, the tone of the abdominal muscles must be built up. To accomplish these purposes some time each day should be spent in bending work and exercise. Spading is fine. Using a shovel is fair. Bending exercises are in order. These are taken standing, sitting, and lying.

About the Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

FOR the benefit of those to whom the Union Station is more conveniently located than the Hoover Airport, it may be divulged that George Brent, the new leading man who is setting feminine movie fans all atwitter and agog throughout the length and breadth of the land, and Loretta Young, the talented young actress who has been doing the same thing to the male cinemaddicts for these several years now, will arrive in Washington from New York this evening aboard the Congressional Limited, due at 7:50 o'clock and extremely apt to be on time.

While it has been generally bruited about that Miss Young and Mr. Brent would arrive in the Capital by plane—having traveled most of the distance East from the Coast by that method—latest word received by the Warner Brothers executives in this city was as above. Since they begin a week of joint personal appearances at the Earle tomorrow, this may be construed as evidence that whatever skit they are to present is already prepared and not in need of protracted rehearsal.

When pressed as to whether 't was planned to meet Mr. Brent and Miss Young at the station with a brass band, Mr. William C. Ewing, of the Warner publicity department, was of the opinion that while a brass band might possibly do for Miss Young, what with all the reports going around, Miss Chatterton returning from Europe soon and one thing and another be was afraid it would have to be a gold band for Mr. Brent! Didja ever?

It will be of interest to a wide circle of his friends in the Capital, that Charlie Raymond, formerly managing director of the Rialto Theater here, and subsequently a Loew manager in Baltimore, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Rochester, is at present engaged in a six-week intensive study of British methods in London, England, preliminary to taking over the management of the Loew enterprises in Johannesburg, South Africa. Well, Charlie's been 'most everywhere else!

Fred Astaire, who with his sister made up the famous dancing team that for years entertained London, New York and points West, upon landing in New York yesterday from Europe to perfect plans for his own appearance alone in a fall production, made it plain that Adele is through with the stage and that the Duchess of Cavendish did not oppose her marriage to Lord Cavendish, second son of the Duke of Cavendish, the duchess being absent from her daughter-in-law's presentation at court solely as a result of illness. So now you know.

Senorita Conchita Montenegro, star of the "On the Riviera" revue, closing tonight at Loew's Fox, with her sister, Senorita Justa Montenegro, was the guest of Senor Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas, Spanish Ambassador to the United States, at the embassy yesterday.

Next week's barrage of attractions in the downtown, first-run sector, before we forget it, will be as follows: Earle, Claudette Colbert and Clive Brook in "The Man From Yesterday," and George Brent and Loretta Young, in person; Loew's Fox, Warren William and Maureen O'Sullivan in "Skyscraper Souls," and Yorke and King in "Curiosities" revue, with Wesley Eddy; RKO-Keith's, opening Saturday, Edmund Lowe, Evelyn Brent and Constance Cummings in "Attorney for the Defense;" Palace, George Bancroft and Wynne Gibson in "Lady and Gent;" Metropolitan, Arthur Wontner in "The Missing Rembrandt;" Columbia, Ken Maynard in "Hell-Fire Austin."

Glen Echo Park, these warm days, is reaping the rewards that are the just deserts of any well-conducted al fresco amusement resort, boasting one of the most perfectly appointed swimming pools in the country. All of the amusement devices are running full blast and the ride out along the high banks of the Potomac in itself is cooling.

By the way, isn't it about time someone was referring to Washington as the perfect summer resort? Only about 105 at the kiosk yesterday!

Use of Foreign Labor In Shipyards Opposed

Newport News, Va., July 13 (A.P.).—Opposition to the employment of foreign workmen on Government work in American shipyards was expressed here yesterday in a resolution adopted at the final session of the Virginia department convention of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Col. John E. Jarvis, of Portsmouth, was elected commander for the Virginia department, succeeding Dr. S. A. Shadrick, of Danville; Charles L. Dean, Newport News, senior vice commander; George W. Cummings, Richmond, junior vice commander, and D. E. Hawkins, Lynchburg, marshal.

Treasury Calls for Bids On Short-Term Bills

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills yesterday announced an issue of $75,000,000 worth of Treasury 91-day bills dated July 20, 1932, in denominations ranging from $1,000 to $1,000,000.

Tenders will be received at the Federal Reserve Banks and branches until Monday, July 18. The bills will be sold on a discount basis to highest bidders and will bear no interest.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A delightful summer frock of printed silk in "little peas" effect, showing a white lacquered flower on the shoulder. And a blue woolen tailleur with discreet touches at pockets and cuffs. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

NEW YORK, July 13.—Today is a most historical one, celebrated with proper fervor in the way that only Gallic fervor can be expressed. Bastille Day, something like our Fourth of July, but far more significant to the French than our Fourth, unfortunately.

Once upon a time, and not so very long ago, all fashionable Paris had to be out of Paris after the "Grande Semaine," or final "big" week of the social season, celebrated the last week in June. In fact, so important was it to flee to seashore or mountains at the close of this famous week that those who remained were given to closing their shutters and using the servants' entrance to make it seem as though they had left town! Now things are changed, and it has become increasingly chic in the last few seasons to remain in Paris for the Fourteenth of July, Bastille Day, and then to go. It is even no longer considered a breach of social form not to go at all, alas for the resorts! But generally, yes, there must be a very, very good reason for the entire family to remain in Paris for the summer. The noteworthy lack of American tourists that used to descend upon Paris each summer like a horde of gold-scattering locusts having become practically nonexistent, some patriotic Parisians have cheerfully announced that since France has become for Frenchmen, they find Paris quite delightful in the summer! Apart from that, though Monsieur must remain in Paree, surely Madame and the children will leave, after today? Leaving poor papa to console himself as best he can with such poor folk as must likewise remain in the city for the summer.

* * * *

Better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make a darling beach hat, a bag that matches it, and a beach dress. You will want to make at least the hat, I promise you—and I promise also that it is the easiest thing to make you can imagine. You don't have to be at all expert with the needle, either. If you haven't time to sit down and sew—though you will have, on your vacation—well, give the leaflet to your maid or dressmaker and tell them to make it for you—it meaning any one of the three beach things in the leaflet.

* * * *

Bernard et Cie and their practical models! I just received the rough sketch of the summer frock and the early fall tailleur I sketched for you today, and hastened to "interpretate" them for you. The dress is printed silk in little dots, which the French call "little peas," and the suit is blue woolen, with chic in its cut and trimming. No-yes?

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:35 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:20 p. m.

A nervy atmosphere will prevail on July 14, and there will be much ado about nothing. A fatiguing and fruitless time. Errors of judgment in business and the malicious influence of a "catty" acquaintance are the two outstanding dangers of the day. Restraint, tact and caution are called for.

The child born on this July 14 will have all its wits about it and will be a handful of mischief. It will be fearless, have a love of battle, and possess a nimble tongue. To be seen and not heard is not the role which it will ever play in life. It will be very affectionate, but able to hate with a real passion.

You, if born on July 14, are a bit of a diamond in the rough, particularly so if a man. You are hard, although your hardness is often tempered with kindness, and your roughness displaced by tenderness. Strength and obstinacy are your two sustaining qualities. You will lead your own life in spite of any and all human connections, and will remain very individualistic. Your virtues are many but your graces are few.

There is nothing in you which is not evident to the whole world. Your sense of justice and loyalty can absolutely be counted upon. Your methods are direct, your speech is blunt and you do nothing in a mincing way. You are admired greatly, or thoroughly disliked, probably through fear or jealousy.

If you be a woman, you are thoroughly effeminite in many of your tastes and manners, but you take a man's attitude toward many things, and your most understanding friends will not be among those of your own sex. You are too capable to ever be a clinging vine, and will probably always be a tower of strength to others. You are both intelligent and intellectual, and your interests extend beyond the horizon of your home or home duties. July 14th women are pictured as active club or church workers and leaders of community affairs. You would never be a neglectful mother.

Successful people born on July 14:

1. W. Herbert Abbott, leather merchant.
2. Olive Borden, film artist.
3. Arthur Capper, senator.
4. Louis M. Davenport, hotel man.
5. William H. Burr, engineer.
6. Paul B. Cravath, lawyer.

J. S. writes: Is there any way of reducing a rather large abdomen, recently developed, in a man 46 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, and 175 pounds in weight? He is a barber by trade and gets practically no exercise. Should one of the three meals a day be eliminated?

REPLY.

This man is overweight. Much of the excess fat is in the abdomen, and the abdominal muscles are flabby. To reach these three causes of the deformity the man must proceed along three lines. The abdomen must be reduced, some fat must be shifted from the abdomen, and the tone of the abdominal muscles must be improved.

To reduce he must eat about one-half as many calories as he has been eating. It does not matter whether he eats them at one meal or six. Second, the abdomen must be made an active zone. Fat is laid down in quiet places.

Third, the tone of the abdominal muscles must be built up. To accomplish these purposes some time each day should be spent in bending work and exercise. Spading is fine. Using a shovel is fair. Bending exercises are in order. These are taken standing, sitting, and lying.

NATS POUND OUT 15-4 WIN TO SWEEP CHISOX SERIES

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE recent huddle of the American League magnates at Cleveland produced a decision to track the "bean ball" to its lair and mete out the punishment that such an offense deserves.

It's a great idea, if it works. This department has for a long time regarded the "bean ball" as the most sinister item of what the magnates are pleased to call the national pastime, but I think, too, that the enforcement of a "bean ball" rule is a job for the prophets and Swamis, not the umpires.

The umpires are charged with answering the question: "When is a 'bean ball' a 'bean ball,' or when isn't it?" They've attempted to make mind readers out of umpires, and who are umpires to read anybody's mind? Especially ball players' minds.

There is no way of telling whether a pitcher throws a "bean ball" by accident or design. It certainly was not intended by the magnates to punish a pitcher who "dusts off" a batter by accident. But who are the umpires to decide the intricate machinations of a pitcher's mind?

The clever pitcher who intends to use the "bean ball" will find a way to escape the penalty, which is ten day off for the first offense, ten days for the second offense, and 30 days for the third offense. This department has seen the clever old-timers work on a rookie batter and scare him away from the plate in a most polished manner that would shock a park full of fans, if the umpire dared to accuse him of using the "bean ball."

They used to dust 'em off and then yell "duck!" and make the profoundest apologies for the "accident." But the purpose was served and will probably be served again in the same manner if any pitcher desires to throw a "bean ball" at any particular hitter.

The ruling to enforce the "bean ball" has the effect of placing under immediate suspicion Fred Marberry whose feud with the Athletics is well known to every umpire. This department foresees a rough road for Marberry with the umpires eager to carry out the orders of the magnates.

Every time that Marberry throws one close to Al Simmons, or Jimmy Dykes, the "bean ball" suspicion will arise. It is suicide to throw them high and wide to Simmons and every Washington pitcher is told to keep 'em in close, but when they do they are laying themselves open to discharge from the game for "bean balling."

Any pitcher who ever had any personal differences with a batter is on the spot.

The effect of the magnates' ruling has been to make not only mind readers of the umpires, but judges and juries as well. For no self-respecting umpire should throw a pitcher out of the game for using the "bean ball" without first/establishing a motive for the act.

It would be contraventional to the constitutional rights of any pitcher, with poll tax paid, to be tossed out of a ball game under the mere suspicion that he had thrown a "bean ball." A motive ought to be absolutely essential. It's up to the umpires to establish the motive.

But the umpires have seen so many foul balls that landed safe and so many outs where there were no outs, that they'd probably see a motive even though there was no motive about the premises.

Red Sox Win Series, Defeating Tigers, 8-7

Boston, July 13 (A.P.).—The strengthened Red Sox took their first series of the year by an 8 to 7 victory over the Detroit Tigers today, winning three of the five-game series.

Earl Whitehill, starting Tiger hurler, was wild and was hit hard, the Sox making four runs off him in the first frame. Johnson and Alexander, his former team mates, contributed doubles in this inning.

Olympic Trial For All U.S. Athletes

Eastman or Others Not Exempted, Is Indication.

300 Stars to Begin Final Tests Friday at Los Angeles.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

PALO ALTO, Calif., July 13 (A.P.).—Although the issue will not be disposed of finally until after the American Olympic track and field tryouts have been concluded here this Saturday, it appeared virtually certain today that no exemptions will be granted—or asked—in the makeup of the homebred athletic forces to be pitted against the rest of the world at Los Angeles.

In other words, the American team will stand on the performers who finish 1, 2, 3 in the final tests, in which approximately 300 stars from all parts of the country will battle it out for some 60 odd places, starting Friday.

No Doubling-Up for Eastman, Says Coach.

So far as all the "shooting" over Eastman's case is concerned, it appears agreeable now to all that the Stanford ace confine himself to the 400-meter run. As to the suggestion that Eastman be included in the 800-meter nominations, without trial, R. L. (Dink) Templeton, the Stanford coach, propped himself up on his sickbed today to state:

"I don't want Eastman to double up in these two Olympic events, under any circumstances. It would mean seven races in five days and that is too much for him or any runner. He will run only in the 400, so far as I am concerned, and he will win it.

"However, I will say this—that if Bill Carr should beat Ben again or should they have so close a race that it would appear either could win the 400 meters for the United States, I might listen to a suggestion that Eastman be transferred to the 800. That, however, would simply revive the old issue about the selections. I want it clear to everybody that we have never asked and do not ask now for any favors."

Eastman, Carr in Separate Heats Friday.

Bill Carr is the black-thatched Pennsylvania flier who sprang one of the year's biggest track sensations by whipping Eastman in 47 seconds in the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet. That upset changed the whole complexion of the Eastman situation and has unquestionably developed a desire among the Westerner's supporters, for a return duel. This is expected to be a high spot of Saturday's finals, with another record smashing race in prospect.

Carr and Eastman, it is understood, have been seeded in the separate heats for Friday's preliminaries.

Mrs. Luippold Fails In Endurance Swim

Because of an attack of cramps, Mrs. Elise Luippold, local long-distance swimmer, was forced to give up last night at the Hoover Airport Pool after she had been in the water swimming continuously for 28 hours and 32 minutes. During this stretch she covered 51 miles.

The world's mark which Mrs. Luippold was attempting to break was 70 hours of continuous swimming.

Nats' Star Shortstop to Be Interviewed Tonight by Dick Moore.

President Clark Griffith, of the Washington Club, members of the team, Manager Bucky Harris, of the Detroit Tigers, and sports editors of the local papers are helping the Sam Rice Day committee stir up interest in the game here Tuesday between the Nationals and Tigers, when the veteran outfielder will be honored.

These boosts will be in the nature of radio interviews, listed every night except Sunday, between now and Sam Rice Day. Tonight, Shortstop Joe Cronin will be interviewed over WRC at 7:15 by Dick Moore, of the News; Kirk Miller, of the Times, will interview Sam West and Fred Marberry at 7 over WMAL, while Shirley L. Povich, of The Post, will interview Buddy Myer at 7:15 Saturday night over WOL. Denman Thompson, of the Star, will complete the series Monday night at 9:45 over WMAL, interviewing both Griffith and Harris.

YANKS BEAT BROWNS BY HOMERS

Ruth Clouts 25th as Pipgras Scores 5-3 Victory.

NEW YORK, July 13 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth's twenty-fifth home run of the season and Frank Crosetti's second circuit drive drove in four of the runs that gave the New York Yankees a 5-to-3 decision in the final game of the series with the St. Louis Browns today.

George Pipgras kept the Browns' seven hits, one of which was a home run by Jack Burns, well scattered. Ruth connected with his homer in the first with Sewell on base and Crosetti sent the ball into the bleachers in the fourth with Chapman on.

D. C. Doubles Title Won by Army Pair

Muehleisen and Robinson Beat Markey and Considine.

Army Team Extended Only in 1st Set; Win, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

DOLF MUEHLEISEN can carry back both District championships to the Pacific Coast. Yesterday he added the doubles title to his kit, in which already nested the singles championship. Paired with Lieut. Stanley K. Robinson, Army singles champion and also a Californian, Muehleisen defeated Bud Markey and Bob Considine, 6—4, 6—1, 6—4, in the final round of the doubles tournament at Wardman Park Hotel.

It was a match only in the first and third sets, but even in these two close encounters the local team's game victories only served to bring them up abreast of their rivals, never ahead. Californians were in the lead from the start and displayed some of the most annihilating doubles seen here this year to remain out in front.

Muehleisen's brilliance could not be discounted, but it was the manner in which Lieut. Robinson held up his end that won the battle. Markey and Considine concentrated almost entirely on Robinson, sending him all manner of shots, but a healthy majority of them came back, and with twice the speed they went over the net.

The pairs matched each other game for game in the first set. At 3—3, Markey and Considine showed signs of taking a lead when they held several advantages on Robinson's service, but Muehleisen stepped into the picture, blasted a couple of overhead smashes high over the backstops and the crisis quickly passed, never to return.

The eventual winners could not be stopped in the second set, showing lambasting strength overhead in spite of Markey's excellent lobbing. Both their services were riddles.

The Army pair went out to 3—1 in the last set. Markey and Considine held the latter's service for 3—2, but trailed once more at 4—2 and 5—3, unable to take up a commanding position at the net. Considine's service once more was held, after the winners-to-be held a match point, but Muehleisen raked the losers' courts on his own service with speed such as the players in this section see only in the movies, and the match was soon in the record books.

Army Leech Cup Players Beaten by Capital Netmen

A team of Washington tennis players yesterday defeated the Army Leech Cup team, five matches to two, on the courts at the Army and Navy Country Club. The Army won one singles match, and one doubles match by proxy, for it was agreed beforehand that the finals of the District championship be regarded as the No. 1 doubles match.

The feature engagement yesterday saw Maj. Robert C. Van Vliet, captain of the Army team, defeat Gene Hermann in three hard sets, 6—4, 6—8, 6—4.

Single—Van Vliet (A.) defeated Hermann, 6—4, 6—8, 6—4; Welsh (W.) defeated Drake, 12—10, 6—2; Gravem (W.) defeated Dorst, 6—2, 6—4; Shore (W.) defeated Hedekin, 6—2, 6—2; Ludona (W.) defeated Helms, 6—2, 6—8, 6—2.

Doubles—Gravem and Welsh (W.) defeated Drake and Thatcher, 6—1, 6—3; Deck and Shore vs. Sherburne and Hedekin (set apiece, darkness).

Leg Injury Suffered By Nurmi, Says Paper

Los Angeles, July 13 (A.P.).—The Examiner in a copyrighted article tonight said Paavo Nurmi, the great Finnish runner, is suffering to such an extent from an injured leg tendon that he may not be able to race in the Olympic games.

Hugo Lahtinen head coach of the Finnish Olympic team, who arrived today with Nurmi and ten other members, was quoted as saying the "Phantom Finn" injured an Achilles tendon on the ship crossing the Atlantic, but that a rest may place him in condition for entry in the 10,000-meter and marathon events.

2 Upsets Recorded At Brookline Nets

Brookline, Mass., July 13 (A.P.).—The tennis tournament for the historic Longwood bowl lost its outstanding competitor today when Dave Jones, of New York, defeated the top-seeded Keith Gledhill, of Los Angeles, 6—1, 2—6, 7—5, 6—3, to enter the semifinals against W. P. Coen, jr., of Kansas City.

Junior Coen had a five-set battle with Jake Hess, of Fort Worth, Tex., before entering the round of four, 6—3, 8—6, 3—6, 2—6, 6—1.

Another upset was registered when Eugene McAuliff, of New York, seeded fourth, bowed to Jack Tidball, Los Angeles, who was named seventh in the draw. California qualifies its only representative in the semifinals on Tidball's 6—4, 10—12, 6—4, 7—5 victory.

MONTE WEAVER.

A's Lose 4th in Row; Tribe Is in 2d Place

Indians Beat Grove for Second Straight Day; Win, 7-5, in Tenth.

Philadelphia, July 13 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians went on the warpath in the tenth inning today and took Lefty Grove and the Athletics into camp by a score of 7 to 5. It was their fourth consecutive triumph over Philadelphia and their second straight over the southpaw. The victory put the Tribe in second place.

The tenth inning saw a weird mix-up in which Catcher Mickey Cochrane temporarily played third and Third-baseman Jimmy Dykes caught a runner at the plate.

With Averill and Vosmik aboard, Morgan drove one at McNair, who tossed home. In a run-down, Dykes nabbed Averill and Cochrane thought he tagged Vosmik at third, but the umpire said no. Cissell's single scored Vosmik and Morgan for the two winning runs.

Ruth to Become Manager in 1935

New York, July 13 (U.P.).—Babe Ruth will quit playing baseball when he's 40 and probably become manager of a major league team, he announced definitely today.

The big fellow said he would play two more seasons with the New York Yankees, if Col. Jacob Ruppert desired his services, and then would lay down his bat for good in the fall of 1934. He is 38 now and will be 40 in February, 1934.

George Herman is not certain what team he will manage. There has been considerable talk of his taking over the Boston Red Sox, but he claimed nothing definite had developed yet on that proposition.

When baseball's most heroic figure retires from the diamond, he will have played 21 seasons of professional baseball, 15 of which were with the Yankees. He now is working on a one-year contract at the presidential salary of $75,000, the highest paid player in the game.

The Babe announced his plans today during an interview in the sweltering dugout at Yankee Stadium, just before the game with the St. Louis Browns, in which he drove his twenty-fifth home run of the season.

RAIN DELAYS TITLE BOUT.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 13 (A.P.).—A heavy downpour of rain tonight caused postponement until tomorrow night of the scheduled 15-round bout between Max Rosenbloom, recognized as light heavyweight champion by the New York State Athletic Commission, and Lou Scozza, of Buffalo, for Rosenbloom's title.

In the Wake Of the Game

THOSE pesky Browns, who have beaten the Nationals seven out of eight starts this season, open a four-game invasion at Griffith Stadium this afternoon, and Manager Walter Johnson and his charges, who are now in a winning streak, promise that the Mound City crew will find that conditions have changed. Lloyd Brown, credited with the only Washington victory over the Killefermen, will try to give an encore to this triumph, while the chances are that either Carl Fischer or Dalter Stewart will oppose him on the hill.

Because Dave Harris has not been hitting as well as hoped, he was benched and Sam Rice given the right-field assignment. Just how long this shift will be effectvie depends upon the manner in which the veteran swings his bat. There is a possibility that Johnson will alternate the two, using Harris against southpaw pitching.

Fonseca also made some changes, bringing Kress in from right and putting him at third in place of the poor-fielding Billy Sullivan.

Citizen soldiers of the military training camp at Fort Myer were guests of the Nats yesterday. About 250 were on hand, Manager Johnson and several of his Nats stopping long enough after the game to shake hands with them.

Nick Altrock left here last night for Springfield, Mass., where he will clown this afternoon at a benefit game being staged by the Elks.

Cronin was credited with two singles in the fourth, when 11 Nats went to the tee.

7-Run Rally Routs Lyons, Weaver Holding Chicago Scoreless for 6 Innings

GOOD-BY PALS

Manush's Triple With Bases Full Accounts for 3 Runs.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MONTE WEAVER, who has been hitting as well as pitching in recent games, was in good form on both counts yesterday, the result being a 15-to-4 victory over the White Sox. It was Weaver's twelfth triumph of the season, his third in succession, and the fifth in a row for the Washington team. It was one of that type of games over which the home fans dote, the Nats scoring no less than 14 runs before the aliens broke the ice in the seventh. By that time, no one was taking things seriously and the four markers which the White Sox scored were more or less complimentary.

The veteran Ted Lyons opposed Weaver on the hill and he had no trouble in getting by the first three frames, but was pounded off of the peak in the fourth, which netted seven juicy markers. The turning point of the game came in this inning in the form of a good break from Old Sol. He shined in Outfielder Seed's eyes, causing him to let West's looper fall safely for a double. But for this, the Nats would have scored but once in this frame and the whole complexion of the game might have been changed.

Weaver's Double Scores Two.

As it was, the blow propelled one mate home and sent another to third so that he could count after the catch of Bluege's long fly. After Spencer rolled to Hayes, Weaver doubled two mates home, walks to Rice and Myer packed the aisles, and Manush cleared the sacks with a triple to deep left. Cecil Pat Caraway came on the scene at this stage of the proceedings and Cronin singled Manush home before the side was retired.

After this big round, it was just a case of finishing out the string. The Nats did not stop to pick any flowers, however, pounding Caraway out in a four-run splurge in the next round, while they also scored four runs off the southpaw shoots of Rookie Art Evans, who finished the game.

Sixteen hits were credited to the home team, with every Nat used in the game, except Harris, getting at least one. Manush had a triple and single to propel home four runs, while a double and one-baser by Weaver scored three mates. Cronin and Bluege also poled out two safeties each.

While all this was going on, Weaver was mowing down the visitors with clocklike regularity. He granted but seven hits all told and it was not until he started letting down in the last three frames that the Sox could get a man past first. They finally did so in the seventh when a single, two walks and a long fly netted a run. In the next round, Funk's triple, a useful out and Seeds' homer to the scoreboard were good for two more, while the fourth one, coined in the ninth, came on a single, walk, infield out and long fly. Funk and Kress each hit safely twice to account for the majority of the bingles off Weaver.

Manager Fonseca shifted his lineup in order to tighten up his defense and worked wonders with his team. It was charged with eight in the Monday game and only uncorked four yesterday, all of which came in Nats' scoring frames, three being packed in the fifth to help score four runs.

Test of Sarazen's Drive Shows Speed of 120 Miles Per Hour

DETROIT, July 13 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen hits a golf ball off the tee at a velocity of between 120 and 130 miles an hour. This was established in a test made yesterday with stop watches and an automobile at the proving grounds of a local motorcar company.

Synchronizing the start of a drive five times with an automobile maintaining a 120-mile-an-hour speed, Sarazan got the ball into the lead of the motorcar for about 100 yards. Then for a time the ball and car travele on even terms but finally the car pulled gradually away.

Timers with stop watches were posted along the testing course to clock both ball and car at various stages. Counting only the distance in flight, the ball traveled 230 yards in 4.5 seconds and the automobile covered the same distance in 4.1 seconds.

Sarazen said the test showed that it is the speed with which the clubhead hits the ball, as much as the timing of the stroke, that gives distance on drivers.

Duke Kahanamoku's Comeback Attempt Fails in Olympic Trials

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 13 (A.P.).—Swimming's "grand old man" failed in his comeback attempt today, 42-year-old Duke Kahanamoku, of Hawaii, finishing far back in the heat in which he had hoped to qualify to represent the United States in the coming Olympics.

Staking his hopes in the 100 meters free style, he plunged into the Coney Island pool here with four others in the fourth heat of the opening day of Olympic swimming trials. At the finish he was third—out of the running, for officials had decreed that only the first two in each heat could reach the semifinals and be eligible for Olympic selection.

Whitney Colt Best Among Juveniles

Leads From Start to Beat Misguide by 3-4 Length.

CHICAGO, July 13 (A.P.).—Crowning Glory, the long-striding, sleek bay colt, owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, of New York, galloped dangerously near the 2-year-old championship of America at Arlington Park today.

The son of Black Toney-Frizeur, victorious in his last three starts and beaten only once, paced to victory in the Hyde Park Stakes, leading all the way to win by three-quarters of a length from Misguide, Western-owned star. Rapscallion, the entry of Sonny Whitney, of New York, was third in the field of nine. The race was the richest juvenile event of the year, East or West, and had a gross value of $21,375, with $17,350 going to Mrs. Whitney.

The manner in which Mrs. Whitney's colt raced to victory indicated he will be able to defend his new honors against any of the juveniles that race this season. Crowning Glory reeled off the 5½ furlongs in 1:04 3-5, which was just two-fifths of a second off the track record, which he established here a week ago.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Hot Dog! Crowning Glory won for Asbestos yesterday. He bet $3 across the board figuring he would go over the $70 mark, but his profit was only $4.29. So the bank roll is now $69.69. Can you beat it?

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 13.

Three winners—Volwood, Lady Broadcast and Jamestown—but I would have traded any two of them for Dis Dat, providing I could have put him over for you at the 3.2-1 quoted against his chances. At that, Dis Dat was beaten only a length and a neck for everything and paid $8.68 to show. They turned on the heat around here today, and Good and Hot seems to be the overnight hunch bet, but I don't like him.

At the other courses, don't fail to get aboard these: Stepping Sister, Huraway, Son O'Sweep, Kentucky Ace, Chene, Sizzling. BILL.

FIRST RACE—LIQUEUR burnt himself out setting a sizzling pace the last time. A slight change in riding methods and I believe this race will flop in the well-known bag. MEROVECH ran a bang-up second the other day and off that effort is dangerous. GLORITONE for third.

SECOND RACE—MR. JOE has proved a consistent youngster and should take care of the colts and geldings to face the barrier in this. HOPE TO DO has worked well. CARRY THE NEWS to lead the others home.

THIRD RACE—CATHROP appears to have an edge over this group, although I'm forced to admit that I will not approach the ticket window with a feeling of security. Try MISS MARR for second, INDIAN RUNNER for third. PREDICT may take all or nothing.

FOURTH RACE—MASKED KNIGHT has shown me enough to warrant a first-place selection here. Expect this one to be leading SAZERAC and MARMION at the finish.

FIFTH RACE—TRED AVON has improved with leaps and bounds since springtime in Maryland. This Labrot miss will be a hot choice tomorrow, and off that showing behind Equipoise appears to be a lockup. The Hertz entry of SEVEN VEILS and FRENCH DUCHESS for place ahead of LATE DATE.

SIXTH RACE—Trying to get famous in this race. Putting PORTCODINE up on the top of the heap. But I have my reasons. This one has been running right with the leaders almost every start. Finally won, but was disqualified. Has worked way back to another winning performance and I believe this is the spot. Get yours. CAMP BOSS and OUTBOUND for the remainder.

SEVENTH RACE—TIGER FLOWERS may give me a long-shot winner in the finale. Has a habit of popping up unexpectedly. ROLLING SEA and ENRO to battle it out for the place and show.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WITHIN the next year the Federal Radio Commission may have to recorder the entire radio set-up in the United States in order to conform its allocations and licenses to the changes which may be worked out at the international radio conference in Madrid next September. This prediction was made by Senator Wallace White, of Maine, co-author of the radio act, while defending appropriations for the commission.

"If that burden of reallocating all the radio channels in the country is placed upon the Radio Commission," Senator White declared, "it will be a responsibility calling not only for its present personnel, with all the resources now contemplated, but it may place a burden on the commission which would call for very enlarged personnel and additional resources.

"There will be a conference at Madrid for the revision of the international radio treaty. This international radio treaty makes an allocation not to nations, but to services of the entire radio spectrum. It fixes the broadcasting bands which all the nations of the world must respect."

Another campaign shot will be fired by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, speaking before the Ohio Republican State convention tonight (Columbia network, 8 o'clock) at Columbus.

THE President may change his notification plans as a result of Roosevelt's flight to Chicago, Paul Mallon writes in the National Whirligig. Arrangements had been privately made for a ceremony on the White House lawn late in July.

"A plan under consideration contemplates something new in radio hookups. National committeemen could remain at home and listen in. Notifier Snell could deliver his address from his home in New York. Acceptor Hoover could answer from Camp Rapidan," according to Mr. Mallon.

"Something along that line probably will be worked out.

Mr. Hoover will depend largely on the radio and the movies to conduct his campaign. White House relations with N. B. C. are particularly close. The movie connections are already well known. For two years past the plans have been abuilding.

"These hookups would enable Mr. Hoover to meet and talk to every voter without leaving the White House."

WHEN Graham McNamee mentioned the Lincoln Highway, Ed Wynn said:

"I know Lincoln built a fine highway but that great Frenchman built more roads in this country than Lincoln did."

"What Frenchman did that?" Mac asked.

"Why you see his name everywhere," Wynn replied. "All over the United States."

"I never heard of him."

"Why yes you did, Graham," the comedian concluded. "His name is De-Tour."

Still on the subject, Wynn said that he had had a detour shave.

"What on earth is that?" McNamee inquired.

"When your map is full of short cuts."

NANCY GARNER, who hails from Corsicana, Tex., and is a cousin of John Nance Garner, Democratic candidate for Vice President, will be heard in a new series of radio programs beginning next Thursday.

Although Miss Garner is a coloratura soprano, she has a diversified repertoire of blues, "hot numbers," classical and semiclassical selections. She has sung on the concert and vaudeville stage.

During the last five years she has appeared over several Southern radio stations, but until two months ago she had never appeared on a network program.

The speaker in the Third Annual Notebook contest (WMAL, 12:15 p. m. today) will be Gertrude M. Driscoll of the D. C. public schools. Frederick Tilton, Third Assistant Postmaster General, will be the guest in the National Farm and Home Hour (WRC, 12:30 p. m.)

BASTILLE Day, the Independence Day of France, will be celebrated tonight (WRC, 10:15 o'clock).

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S BUYING

October Advances to 5.88; General Market Gains 20 to 23 Points.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Cotton rallied sharply today after a slight early decline. The advance reflected trade buying and covering which found offerings comparatively light after the reaction of about 60 points from the high prices of last week.

October contracts rose from 5.60 to 5.88 and closed at the best, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 20 to 23 points.

The opening was 4 to 7 points lower under further liquidation and scattered selling partly from abroad and partly promoted by continued good weather in the South. Offerings were much lighter than yesterday, however, and were readily absorbed.

Weather Report Ignored.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau failed to stimulate the market either way, and trading was comparatively quiet during the middle of the day. Failure of the weather news to bring in more selling and the better tone of the stock market contributed to the advance which carried July up from 5.47 to 5.74 and December from 5.76 to 6.04. Closing quotations were the best of the day on most positions.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and liquidation on the favorable weather in that market. Exports today, 7,236, making 8,546,647 so far this season.

Advance in Cattle Price Hailed as Trade Upturn

Kansas City, July 13 (A.P.).—Cattle again brought a top price of $9.25 on the Kansas City market today, although classes other than choice fat steers showed a tendency to sag.

Commenting on the sharp rise in prices for cattle, hogs and lambs, H. L. Jarboe, president of the Drovers National Bank, said:

"Live stock is leading the way. The increasing value of live stock, which is the principal item of wealth in this area, by about $500,000,000, will start the steady uphill climb of all business. I see it, and every banker at the stockyards sees it."

Glowing Credit Reports Figure in Match Tangle

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Favorable credit reports on the Kreuger & Toll Co. made by representatives of domestic and foreign banks and a "glowing report" by R. G. Dun & Co., were introduced today at a hearing before Henry H. Davis, referee in bankruptcy.

New Banks Prosper.

Chicago, July 13 (A.P.).—Rand-McNally & Co. reported tonight the first two weeks in July show that new and reopened banks are maintaining the steady increase begun in March. For this week the increase is 55 per cent over the same period in 1931.

MORGAN POOL SEEN AS BOND RISE HELP

Listed Issues Now Record $500,000,000 in Value Appreciation.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—The $100,000,000 Morgan-sponsored American Securities Investing Corporation, after six weeks of operation, has the satisfaction of a moderate paper profit on its investments to date, it was learned authoritatively.

The bond market, as measured by price averages of domestic corporation issues, reached its low just two days before formal announcement of the formation of the investing corporation, and save for a substantial letdown in the last 10 days of June, has been working almost steadily higher. In June alone, all bonds listed on the stock exchange appreciated in quoted value roughly $500,000,000.

This has resulted more from a lifting of the deadening pressure of liquidation than from new buying. Nevertheless, the subsidence of selling from bank and institutional investment portfolios, and other sources, has left the market sensitive to buying. In sources close to the investing corporation, it is said that it has been found difficult to buy highest grade liens in any volume without bidding prices up substantially.

But the fact that a group of the country's leading banks regarded the time propitious for an investing program, has apparently tended to check needless jettisoning of securities, and prompted a gradual trickle of buying by investors.

The encouraging aspect of the bond market in recent weeks, according to sources close to the investing corporation, has been the restored balance of buyers and sellers. For months buyers had backed timidly away from offerings, leaving the market in a condition bordering on demoralization.

Buying by Employed Urged As Stimulus to Prosperity

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13 (A.P.).—To start the wheels of industry whirring faster, the Milwaukee Association of Commerce has sponsored a united buying plan designed to open the tightly held purses of America's millions of employed.

The proposal is being studied by the United States Chamber of Commerce for possible submission to its affiliated chambers and other business organizations throughout the country. Estimates of the orders it would produce range as high as $15,000,000,000.

Its essence is removal of the fear of losing jobs by the gainfully employed. To accomplish this, they would be asked to promise to buy some needed items; these pledges would be taken to leaders of industries who would be requested to hire additional men and women on the basis of the expected orders.

Then—and not until the industrial leaders gave their assurances of increased employment with its concommitant expansion of general business would the buying pledges be required to be executed.

Campaigns similar to Liberty loan drives would be followed in obtaining the purchase commitments over the country.

BONDS CLIMB HIGHER IN CHEERFUL TRADING

Utility Loans Are Buoyant in Leading Rise; Federals Continue Gains.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—The bond market today reached its highest level of the month, virtually all classes of domestic securities displaying a strong tone. Transactions, which have been gradually widening so far this week, totaled $11,171,000 par value.

Public utility bonds displayed the most buoyant tone of any one group. They recorded a one-half point gain in the Standard Statistics average, and a number of issues were up a point or more. Their firmness attracted considerable interest because of new financing by two utilities—the Brooklyn Union Gas Co., which has a new issue of first lien 5s to be offered publicly tomorrow at a price to yield about 5.14 per cent, and the Edison Co. of Boston, which is issuing $25,000,000 of two-year 5 per cent notes.

Gains of 1 or more points in the utility group were made by American & Foreign Power 5s, American Telephone collateral 5s, American Union Electric first 5s, three issues of International Telephone and the Postal Telegraph 5s. New York City Traction bonds advanced as much as 7 points.

Strong spots in the industrial and railroad groups included bonds of American Metal, American Smelting, New York Dock, Remington Rand, Vanadium Co. and liens of the Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Southern Railway. The Southern Railway consolidated 5s advanced 5¾ points.

U. S. Governments pursued their now familiar course of rising prices with the Treasury 3½s moving up 23-32 and the 3s, 16-32 of a point.

Foreign governments were mixed with Argentine bonds breaking sharply, six issues yielding 3 or more points.

Auburn Loss Is $151,987.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Auburn Automobile Co. had net loss of $151,987 in the quarter ended May 31, contrasted with profit of $2,158,765 in the same period of 1931.

CURB SHARES RALLY IN HEAVY TURNOVER

Utility Group Is Prominent in Upswing; Oils Also Make Headway.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—The curb market experienced its best rally in about a month today, largely in sympathy with the covering movement on the big board.

Trading quickened considerably on the advance. The day's turnover of about 90,000 shares was 30,000 above the recent low volume.

The public utility group was prominent in the recovery, despite the fact that the weekly electric power consumption report failed to provide much encouragement. The Electric Bond & Share common and preferred issues rose a point or more, and Illinois Power & Light and National Power & Light preferreds advanced about 2 points. Montreal Light, Heat & Power advanced 3 to 27, the best price made in this market this year. Associated Gas "A" touched a new low at 1, and closed unchanged at 1½.

Oils also made fair headway. Standard of Indiana rose a fraction to 19, coming within ¼ of a point of the year's high. Humble gained 1½, and Gulf half as much. In the industrials, A. O. Smith pushed up 4 points to 15 in a thin market. Deere advanced fractionally, in sympathy with strength of Case on the big board. Aluminum Co. gained a point. In mining issues, Roan Antelope rose ½ points to 4½ in a fair turnover then lost most of its gain.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON WEATHER DANGER

Speculative Buying of Corn Also Stimulates Advance; Oats Join Rise.

Chicago, July 13 (A.P.).—Torrid heat reported in sections of United States spring crop territory, 100 degrees at some South Dakota stations, did much to lift grain values today.

Anxiety developed as to likelihood that extreme high temperatures would reduce both the yield and the quality of spring wheat, with some authorities asserting that the crop condition had reached its acme, and that any change hereafter must be for the worse. Another stimulus was speculative buying of corn, which gave a sudden hoist to that cereal.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish; corn, 1 to 1½ up; oats, ½ to ¾ advanced, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

Uneasiness shown regarding the outlook for spring wheat focused trade attention particularly on areas where the rainfalls of late had not been as heavy as in other sections.

Skepticism expressed over the latest official estimate of domestic winter wheat production received considerable notice. There was talk that the Government forecast was at least 20,000,000 bushels too high, especially as much of the wheat appeared certain not to be harvested. Bullish reports about Russia's wheat sowing campaign having fallen 15,000,000 acres below the program were also given due notice. On the other hand, European demand for North American wheat was disappointing, with shipments overseas this week totaling only 382,000 bushels, against 2,880,000 a year ago.

Corn and oats displayed independent strength, based largely on scarcity of offerings of corn. Brisk buying of September corn was credited to a leading professional trader.

Provisions rallied late with corn, but earlier had declined responsive to a setback in hog values.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Wed.	Tues.
Number of advances	326	216
Number of declines	86	123
Stocks unchanged	99	129
Total issues traded	510	468

Stocks.

Well-sustained recovery cheered the market. Gains of one to three points were generously distributed. Utility shares led advance.

Bonds.

Prices climbed higher in hopeful trading. All classes of domestic manifested a strong tone. Federals continued to rise.

Curb.

Shares followed the big board in rally, with the utility group prominent in upswing. Day's sales totaled 90,000 units.

Wheat.

Hot weather menace to spring crop lifted wheat prices. Speculative buying of corn also stimulated upturn. There were also some discounting of the recent Government estimate on production.

Cotton.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading continued quiet on the stock exchange. Gilt-edged securities were firm on investment buying but profit taking in other sections, especially home rails, caused an uncertain close.

Paris—Prices on the bourse opened undecided, buyers reducing their commitments in view of tomorrow's holiday. French rentes continued to improve, bank shares were steadier and international issues irregular. The market closed barely steady.

Berlin—Prices opened weak and closed lower on the boerse, due to the inner political uncertainty.

Crude Oil Price Higher.

Pittsburgh, July 13 (A.P.).—An increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price of Midland District crude oil in Michigan was announced today by the Pure Oil Co. The new price is 85 cents a barrel.

Gains of 1 to 3 Points Generously Distributed as Hopeful News Aids.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Security markets breezed through a well-sustained recovery today, getting helpful cooperation from a number of commodities.

For stocks, it was the best rally in about a month and also the most active session in the same period; net gains of 1 to 3 points were generously distributed over a list which had been wandering in a narrow range while stubbornly refusing to break through average low of early June.

The supposition that the technical position of shares had been strengthened since July 1 was borne out by the rather spirited advances in a few recently weak stocks, notably utilities.

Utility Shares Jump.

American Telephone, Peoples Gas & Public Service of New Jersey jumped 2 to 3, giving that group somewhat the better of the movement. However, Case, American Can, Corn Products, American Tobacco "B," Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Allied Chemical were equally strong.

United States Steel preferred rose 3⅞, although there were even better gains in a few other senior equities. Transactions amounted to 877,819 shares, the largest turnover since June 15.

Speculators for the rise received encouragement from several sources. Adjournment of Congress, it appeared, would not be much longer delayed and the market was plainly in a mood to anticipate that event. Iron Age estimated a rise of 4 points in steel production, representing a natural rebound from July 4 curtailments. Furthermore, special liquidation seemed to have disappeared, a circumstance that probably stimulated considerable professional activity.

Trade News Weak.

Trade news was hardly inspiring. Iron Age said the steel business "must look first for constructive developments outside their own immediate province for the stimulation of confidence necessary to recovery," but thought the groundwork probably was being improved by firmer commodity prices and the Lausanne settlement. It anticipates a slackening of business in the automotive field.

Auburn Auto reported a deficit for the second quarter and the stock had an early dip of more than 4 points in response, although it eventually made full recovery.

Electric power production dropped in the week ended July 9, which covered the holiday, but the fortnightly comparison with a year ago showed a slightly larger recession than did the two weeks embracing Memorial Day. Continental Can Co. reduced its dividend to a $2 annual basis from $2.50, but it, as well as Procter & Gamble which cut yesterday, joined the rally.

UNITED FRUIT'S NET IS CUT TO $1,500,000

First Six Months' Income Equivalent to 51 Cents as Share Dividend.

Boston, July 13 (A.P.).—The United Fruit Co. today reported net profits for the first six months of 1932 of $1,500,000, or the equivalent of 51 cents a share, as compared with $6,970,000, or the equivalent of $2.38 in the same period in 1931. Depreciation absorbed for the first six months this year was $6,657,000.

The board of directors approved a change in organization which placed Samuel Zemurray in charge of operations. Zemurray is a director of the company and was formerly president of the Cuyamel Fruit Co., which was purchased by the United Fruit Co. two years ago.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Directors of Continental Can Co., Inc., today reduced the dividend rate to $2 annually by declaring a quarterly disbursement of 50 cents a share, payable August 15 to stock of record August 1. The previous yearly rate was $2.50.

C. O. Huffman, president, said business of the company to July 2 was about 17 per cent less than last year.

The low stocks of many canned products now in warehouses and on dealers' shelves, he added, and the recent advancing price trend in some of the principal canned foods "are encouraging factors."

Electricity Output Less During Week

Central Section Reports Largest Yield Drop in Nation.

New York, July 13 (A.P.).—Electric power production in the United States during the week ended July 9, which included Independence Day, totaled 1,341,780,000 kilowatt hours, against 1,456,961,000 in the previous week.

Because the holiday came in the preceding week last year the National Electric Light Association made comparisons with 1931 on the basis of the past fortnight, announcing that the decline for that period from 1931 was 12.8 per cent.

Sectional decreases were as follows: Atlantic Seaboard, 9.4 per cent; central industrial section, 14.8 per cent; Pacific Coast, 13.9 per cent.

BIG BUS TERMINAL SLATED FOR CAPITAL

Erection starting August 15, of a building that can serve as a union terminal for a number of bus lines operating through Washington and forced to relinquish curb stops in the downtown business districts, was announced yesterday by M. P. St. Clair, president of United Motor Terminals, Inc., a Delaware corporation carrying out this project.

The corporation has leased from the Wallach estate, for a period of 30 years at an unreported consideration, property near the northwest corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Sixth street northwest, having frontages of 139 feet on Pennsylvania avenue, 74 feet on Sixth street and 164 feet on C street, as the site for its terminal.

Buildings Will Be Razed.

Following razing of existing structures on this location, the corporation will construct a one-story and basement, fireproof, limestone building, having a floor space of 19,000 square feet. The Consolidated Engineering Co., of Baltimore, builders of the U. S. Department of Commerce Building and the new House Office Building, will be the builders, and Milburn, Heister & Co., of this city, are its architects. Floor space will be divided equally between ground floor and basement. The Pennsylvania avenue facade of the building has been approved by the U. S. Commission of Fine Arts.

Store space on the Pennsylvania avenue front of the projected terminal will be occupied by a drug store, a unit of a national chain grocery and one of another chain to be determined later. The C street frontage will serve as an entrance for the bus lines using the terminal, which will exit via Sixth street.

In this part of the first floor, there will be four bus lanes with platforms, capable of caring for the loading and unloading of approximately 1,000 buses daily. The terminal itself will be able to accommodate 20,000 persons a day. At the corner of the ground floor abutting C and Sixth streets, a national oil company will install a gasoline service station.

Concessions in Waiting Room.

Passengers will have no access to the building from the C and Sixth streets sides but will enter and leave it by Pennsylvania avenue, from which entrance a ramp will descend to a waiting room of approximately 10,000 square feet in the basement.

This waiting room will be lined with various concessions and services, including a first aid unit, children's nursery, a dental affice and headquarters for a shopping package service operating hourly between downtown stores and the terminal. A large restaurant, soda fountain, novelty shop, newsstand, barber shop, beauty parlor, haberdashery, dress shop, rest rooms and toilets, dry cleaning establishment, laundry, fruit store and florist shop also will be located in the basement. Bus lines that will use this terminal will be announced at a later date. If a sufficient number of lines will use this terminal the original building will be expanded to accommodate a hotel and garage on a second, third and fourth story.

Hotel Is Historic.

Demolition of existing property for the proposed building involves the razing of the historic Metropolitan Hotel, once the hostelry of Abraham Lincoln, William Jennings Bryan and many other famous personages. This building, erected in 1856 on the site of the former Indian Queen Tavern, was constructed by some of the builders of the Capitol and its front is of the same type of marble employed in the latter's construction.

Realization of the terminal project represents culmination of two years' effort. Negotiations incidental to the leasing of the property which consumed more than six months' time, were conducted by the L. S. Scott Corporation, successors to H. W. Hillearv, through its representative, John L. Fugitt, and N. S. Wheeler, New York City.

Permanent organization and personnel of United Motor Terminals, Inc., will be announced within a few days.

TRACTION BILL TOPS SENATE LIST TODAY

Blaine Renews Opposition to Merger as Austin Moves for Action.

The District traction merger will be the first order of business in the Senate today, following an interrupted attempt to bring the controversial bill to a vote before recess last night.

For weeks Senator Austin (Republican), Vermont, Senate sponsor of the bill, has attempted to get action under unanimous consent rules. Each time he has been blocked by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, arch-foe of the bill.

Senator Blaine was on his feet at once yesterday when Senator Austin moved for the formal consideration of the merger measure, in the form it passed the House.

Lack of Time Pleaded.

"I have not had time to examine the House bill," he said. "I understand it is materially different from the Senate merger resolution. If the measure is to be seriously considered at this session, the Senate bill should be taken up."

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, original advocate of a 5-cent street car fare here, asked if the merger provided for reduced street car fare. Informed that it did not, he said he could see no necessity for a merger.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, said he thought it would be possible to work out differences between House and Senate bills on the floor of the Senate.

Austin Motion Delayed.

Action on the Austin motion was delayed when Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, launched a speech on power trust investigations of the Federal Trade Commission, which, he said, he will resume tomorrow.

Interested spectators from the gallery were Harley P. Wilson, North American Co., director and owner of majority stock in the Washington Rapid Transit Co.; John Maynard Harlan and Judge J. C. Barley, counsel for interests seeking a merger.

The Senate District committee has made a majority report in favor of the bill, but a minority, consisting of Senator Blaine and Senator Arthur Capper, committee chairman, object to certain features of the measure. They ask universal transfers and 100 per cent Public Utility Commission power regulation.

Heads Installed By Rotary Club

Group's Retiring Officers Receive Gifts From Membership.

Committee reports were heard at a luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday at the Willard Hotel. Retiring President S. Percy Thompson and the other retiring officers were tendered tokens of appreciation for their services.

Dr. Arthur C. Christie, new president, addressed the meeting.

Others taking office were: Thomas L. Eagan, secretary; Marion X. Willberding, treasurer, and Frank A. Kerr, sergeant-at-arms. The new directors are A. F. E. Horn, David E. Buckingham and Frank W. Ballou. Division chairmen taking office were: James Sharp, international service; A. F. E. Horn, club service; E. S. Goodloe, vocational service, and Henry M. Brawner, jr., community service.

Boy Gets Nail in Foot From Pole.

A nail was driven into the foot of James E. Flynn, 14, of 628 D street northeast, yesterday when he slid from a telephone pole. The boy was taken to Casualty Hospital.

Sleeping Marcher Robbed of $9.

About $9 was stolen from the pockets of Robert Board, colored, member of the bonus army stationed at the Anacostia camp, while he slept yesterday at 58 F street northwest.

Contract Let to Raze Building of Red Cross

Rhine & Co., Four-and-a-half street and Pennsylvania avenue, was low bidder on demolishing of the temporary Red Cross Office Building on D street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, with an offer of $1,649.

There were five bids. The space will be used to erect a monument to Jane A. Delano, war time nurse.

Lions Club Gives Camp Letts Field

Athletic Facilities Turned Over to Y. M. C. A. at Exercises.

The Washington Lions Club yesterday gave Camp Letts, the Y. M. C. A. vacation spot on the Rhodes River near Chesapeake Bay, an athletic field, consisting of a cinder track, two baseball diamonds, four tennis courts and other facilities.

The presentation was made by James P. Schick, a past president of the club. Leonard W. DeGast, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., accepted the gift. A. N. Miller, chairman of the club's camp committee, presided. The field, covering a 217-acre peninsula near Annapolis, was designed by Arthur B. Heaton. A bronze tablet, recording the ceremony, was unveiled on a pedestal at the edge of the field.

The boys at the camp staged an athletic program after the presentation. The Lions Club has taken an active interest in Camp Letts, donating silver cups for proficiency in camping each year.

Leave Cash Sought For Printing Office

Carter Requests Senate to Revise Economy Legislation.

Public Printer George H. Carter yesterday requested the Senate to revise economy legislation making it impossible for some 4,800 Government Printing office employes to draw $995,000 due them for leave forgone in 1932.

The request was made in a letter to Senator Shipstead, (Republican), Wisconsin. He was asked to amend his resolution exempting employes of the office from the provision abolishing all paid leave in 1933.

Mr. Carter pointed out that these workers, ranging from messengers and charwomen to binders and printers, have earned their leave and have $995,000 impounded in the Treasury for this purpose. He suggested that in lieu of leave the allotment be made in cash. Senator Shipstead had the letter printed in the Congressional Record.

Another Parkway Link Is Planned

Work to Start on Stretch in Fall Between P Street and Pennsylvania Avenue.

Preliminary excavation work in the Rock Creek Valley, between P street and Pennsylvania avenue, will be undertaken in the fall and will be the next step in improving the Rock Creek and Potomac parkway, according to announcement yesterday by Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Parks.

The appropriation for this work was cut in Congress and Col. Grant's office will be able to take up only a part of the original program.

According to present indications, it probably will be at least three years before the entire parkway can be improved to a point where it will be open to traffic.

Staffs Pledge Harmony In Using Relief Funds

Plans for cooperation between the private welfare and relief agencies and the Board of Public Welfare, which will administer the $350,000 fund authorized by Congress, were discussed at a meeting of the policy committee of the Council of Social Agencies yesterday. The committee pledged the utmost cooperation to the public welfare organization.

Mrs. W. A. Roberts, executive secretary of the Council of Social Agencies, was directed by the policy committee, which is composed of the executives of the private welfare and relief agencies, to convey to the Board of Public Welfare congratulations upon its recommendation of L. A. Halbert to administer the congressional fund.

Two Girls Injured as Car Driven by Father Upsets

Two little girls were injured yesterday when an automobile driven by their father, Ralph A. Norcia, 28, of 302 E street northwest, hit a lamppost and overturned after it was sideswiped by another car.

Betty Jane, 6, and Ruth Norcia, 3, were treated at Providence Hospital for cuts and bruises. Both Norcia and John Cusick, jr., 19, of 1613 Gales street northeast, driver of the other car, escaped injury.

Burgess' Will Filed for Probate.

Mrs. Suzanne B. Burgess, widow of Dr. George K. Burgess, for many years head of the Bureau of Standards, was named as principal beneficiary of her husband's estate, it was shown yesterday when she petitioned the District Supreme Court for probate of the will. The estate totals $58,639.17, all personal property.

Man Struck on Head With Iron Bar.

Philip Duplessis, 47, of Seat Pleasant, Md., was in an undetermined condition at Casualty Hospital yesterday due to injuries he suffered when a colored man struck him on the head with an iron bar, while he was loading rubbish in the alley in the rear of 322 K street northwest.

RETURN OF SUSPECT IN HENRY CASE SET

Man Seized in Philadelphia Said to Have Dropped Extradition Fight.

Charles Bernstein, alias Frankie Blum, wanted by police in connection with the murder of Milton "Millsie" Henry last April, will be returned here from Philadelphia, Monday, Inspector P. S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, said last night.

Bernstein was arrested in Philadelphia nearly a month ago on a concealed weapon charge. Washington authorities tried to bring him back for questioning but he fought extradition.

Yesterday, according to the Associated Press, he dropped his fight and said he would come here without a protest. He will be returned here in custody of United States marshals.

Another suspect in the case, Harry Davis, was released on order of United States Commissioner Needham A. Turnage, a few days ago. Davis had given himself up when he knew that police wished to question him. He was held at the jail until Commissioner Turnage ordered his release.

Curley Club Will Make First Retreat Tomorrow

The men of the Curley Club of Washington will make their first annual retreat at Manresa-on-the-Severn, starting at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. The party will return to the city early Monday. The retreat will be given under the direction of the Rev. Eugene DeL. McDonnell and the Rev. Ferdinand Schoberg, of the Jesuit Order. Francis A. McCann is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Those desiring to make the retreat will assemble at the Continental Hotel at 5:15 p. m., where transportation accommodations will be arranged for the trip to Annapolis.

Middle West Planning For Oxford Celebration

Extensive preparation is being made in the Middle West for the celebration of the centennial of the Oxford movement next year, according to the Rev. Robert Shores, president of the Anglo-Catholic Club of Washington, who has just returned from a Western trip.

Dr. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church, and chairman of the committee arranging the Oxford celebration in Washington, recently sailed for England to discuss the celebration with the clergy there.

Eastern Stadium Is Open to Public

Many Facilities Are Offered Every Week Day Under Center's Auspices.

Under auspices of East Washington Community Center, Seventeenth and East Capitol streets, the stadium of Eastern High School is open to the public for the summer every week day from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 4:40 p. m. until dark, under direction of Mrs. Ella Scott, assistant community secretary in charge. It was announced yesterday.

The facilities offered in the stadium are available for tennis, track events and other games and sports. The soccer field is available for baseball practice. No special program of events has been planned.

The Boys Independent Band holds regular Tuesday evening rehearsals in the auditorium, which are open to the public.

PERCENTAGE SLASH IN GAS BILLS URGED

Rates Held Unreasonable in Public Utility Body's Letter to Company.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday acceded in part to the demands for a public hearing on gas rates but suggested an alternative plan of percentage cuts in gas bills from August 1 until February 1, 1933, in a letter addressed to Marcy Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co.

Making his first public announcement since petitions had been filed several weeks ago by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and the Federation of Citizens Associations, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, made public the commission's letter to the gas company.

"Notice is hereby given that complaint has been made that the rates charged by your company are unreasonable," the letter stated. "The commission has made an investigation and is satisfied that sufficient grounds exist to warrant a formal public hearing being ordered as to the matters so investigated. After the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice, the commission proposes to set a time and a place for the public hearing.

Would Postpone Action.

"In this connection the commission has given careful thought to existing economic conditions and has under consideration issuing immediately an interlocutory order requiring you to make a percentage reduction on all bills rendered to your customers between the first of August and the first of February, 1933.

"If you will acquiesce and interpose no objection to such an order temporarily reducing rates, the commission will be willing to postpone further action under this notice until after the 1st of January, 1933. By that time it is expected that the commission's valuation of your property will be substantially completed and there will have been an opportunity to observe the results of the new tariffs recently imposed and other economic factors as they bear upon the operating expenses and the revenues of your company."

The commission asked that the gas company reply no later than July 25. Mr. Sperry last night said he had not yet received the communication and that he could not comment on the proposal until he had given it further consideration. He added that the board of directors doubtless will consider the plan at its regular meeting on July 20.

Disension Is Denied.

Both Gen. Patrick and Mr. Sperry denied the matter had been discussed between them, although the gas company president has made several calls on the commission chairman during the last few days in connection with the gas holder application withdrawal.

Gen. Patrick said the question of the percentage of reduction would be determined if the gas company agrees to the compromise.

People's Counsel Keech in his petition pointed out that although a reduction in rates was made by the gas company last February, effective March 1, the company's revenue during April and May increased 11.5 per cent over the same period last year despite the estimate that the rate cuts would reduce the utility's net income by some $231,000. He estimated the company would earn a profit of 10 per cent this year on its rate base of about $20,000,000.

William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, declared in his petition that the gas company earned about 13 per cent during the first four months of this year.

Commissioners Issue Notice on Sirens' Use

The District Commissioners yesterday informed the Senate District committee that no new regulation is necessary to curb the noise made by sirens on ambulances and Police and Fire Department vehicles. The regulation had been requested in a resolution introduced by Senator Glass, of Virginia, and adopted by the committee.

The Commissioners stated, however, that notices have been sent to persons operating such municipal vehicles to use sirens only when absolutely necessary.

Gas Firm Worker Injured.

John Nelson, employed by the Washington Gas Light Co., at Twenty-sixth and G streets northwest, was treated at Georgetown Hospital for a crushed foot which he suffered when a valve fell on him yesterday while he was working.

Pointer's Estate Totals $115,080.

An estate of $115,080.23 was left by Herbert A. Pointer, meat dealer, a petition for the probate of his will disclosed yesterday in District Supreme Court. The widow, Mrs. Claudie T. Pointer, is the sole beneficiary.

Thief Takes Smokes From Truck.

Cigarettes and cigars valued at $15 were stolen yesterday from a truck belonging to the George W. Cochran Co., while it was parked at Fifth and G streets northwest.

PERSONAL TAX DROP FACED BY DISTRICT

Average Return So Far This Year Is $38, Compared With $98 in 1931.

A considerable decrease in tax collections from personal property faces the District government this year, Deputy Tax Assessor Charles A. Russell stated yesterday in announcing that the average tax return has shrunk 65 per cent on the basis of returns so far.

The average tax return for the last fiscal year was $98, Mr. Russell said. On account of the shrinkage in values of all classes of tangible and intangible property, the average returns filed so far is about $38.

Although almost half of the time allowed for the filing of returns has expired, only 5,200 returns have been made. As there were 41,000 of these accounts last year, tax officials estimate that 36,000 are delinquent.

Warning hoarders, Mr. Russell said: "There is a mistaken idea among certain people that the withdrawal of their money from the bank and keeping it at home makes it nontaxable. This is erroneous, as money is taxable no matter in what form it is kept."

Beginning tomorrow, the personal tax office on the first floor of the District Building will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. On Saturday the office will close at 1 p. m.

Electric League To Meet Tonight

To Hear Specialists Tell of Latest in Kitchen Equipment.

The Electric League of Washington will hear construction specialists from New York and Philadelphia explain the latest developments in electrical kitchens at a meeting which will be held at 8 p. m., today in the auditorium of the Potomac Electric Power Co., Tenth and E streets northwest.

A playlet written and produced by members of the league will be presented at the meeting. J. F. Myers, president of the organization, will preside. Capt. Harold F. Clark, assistant engineer commissioner of the District will be a guest.

Other guests will include M. D. Williams, national executive secretary of the Electrical Guild of North America, and members of the Electrical League of Northern Virginia. The meeting will be open to any one engaged in electrical business.

Memorial Highway Bus Hearing Today

Washington and Virginia Civic Groups to Fight Giving of Permits.

Several civic organizations, both in Washington and nearby Virginia, will oppose the proposal that buses be allowed to run on regular schedules on the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway at a hearing today at the office of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director public parks and buildings.

Applications for the use of the highway have been made by nine bus companies, which are supported by residents of the lower end of the highway.

Officials of Arlington and Fairfax Counties have expressed themselves against opening the road for bus lines, as have the District and National Bicentennial Commissions, the American Automobile Association and the American Motorists Association.

Man, 65, Shoots Own Hand.

John Owens, colored, 65, of South Washington, Va., shot himself through the left hand while handling a revolver on the Virginia dump. He was treated at Emergency Hospital and later transferred to Gallinger Hospital.

CHOICE ON FURLOUGH SOUGHT BY WORKERS

Resolution Asks Taking of Off-Days in Long or Short Periods.

The five-day week proposal for Federal employes received new opposition yesterday from the Department of the Interior branch of the National Federation of Federal Employes when a resolution was adopted asking President Hoover to authorize the use of the furlough so that Government workers may take the 24 days furlough without pay in long or short periods.

Under the plan, needs of public business would be given first consideration, it was pointed out. The five-day week plan was proposed to the President last week by the Council of Personnel Administration. It would require that the month's furlough without pay be taken on the basis of one-half a day each week, without pay.

Opposition to the five-day week proposal has also been taken by the District Federation of Federal Employes Unions, the Civil Service League, the Department of Labor and Treasury Department officials.

In another resolution adopted yesterday, the Interior branch recommended reestablishment of harmonious relations between the National Federal of Federal Employes and the American Federation of Labor and the reaffiliation of the two organizations.

"The recent legislative struggle in Congress shows clearly the necessity for close cooperation of all organized workers in America to safeguard pay standards, working conditions and hours of labor," it was declared.

The National Federation of Federal Employes withdrew from the American Federation of Labor a year ago.

INQUEST SET TODAY IN MT. ALTO MURDER

Former Patient Fails to Give Explanation in Death of Institution's Head.

An inquest will be held at the District Morgue at 11:30 a. m. today in the death of Dr. Victor A. Aimone, chief medical officer of the Mount Alto Hospital, who was shot to death yesterday by a former patient of the institution.

Frank Cassel, 44, war veteran, who for the past month has been living at 4001 Fourteenth street northwest, fired the shot after he was told to wait in the lobby of the administration building for a physician who he said he was seeking. Fifteen minutes after he entered the building a shot rang out.

Gives No Explanation.

Cassel was immediately surrounded by hospital attendants and was taken to the Seventh Precinct Station, where he maintained a stolid silence. He gave no explanation for his crime when questioned by headquarters detectives. Mumbling incoherently, he continued to stare wild-eyed at everyone, while he meekly obeyed all of the instructions given him by police.

The slayer was said to have entered the hospital and asked for Dr. H. B. Baxley, who had treated him. When told that Dr. Baxley had not arrived, he took a seat in the hall of the building.

Maj. H. K. Bently, business manager of the institution, heard a shot ring out and ran into the chief physician's office where he discovered the tragedy. Cassel offered no resistance to arresting officers.

Wife Is Prostrated.

Mrs. Mary Aimone, wife of the doctor, was prostrated at the news of her husband's death. She has no children.

The slayer was scheduled to appear at the Police Court yesterday to answer a charge of assault. He was said to have struck a woman without provocation. A $100 bond had been posted for his appearance at the court.

Dr. Aimone, a graduate of Georgetown University Medical School, had been in charge of the Mount Alto Hospital for the last five years.

Downtown Office Is Looted.

Articles valued at $50 were reported stolen from an office at 1410 H street northwest yesterday by Mrs. Olive B. Lacy. Entrance was gained by jimmying the front door.

Washington's Descendant To Fly on Historic Route

Plans are under way for Anne Madison Washington, great-great-great-niece of George Washington, to be the passenger in a dawn to dusk flight on July 26 over all territory covered by the First President in his travels.

Maj. James H. Doolittle will pilot the plane, taking off from Kittery, Me. The Federal Bicentennial Commission, which has planned the flight, named Miss Washington as the most logical person to make the flight. Her 17-year-old nephew, John Augustine Washington, jr., great-great-great-great-nephew of George Washington, has been named as alternate.

Miss Washington, who has never been up in a plane, is a direct descendant of John Augustine Washington, full brother of George Washington. Her grandfather, who was also named John Augustine Washington, was the last member of the family to own Mount Vernon. Miss Washington was official hostess at the American exhibit last year at the French colonial and overseas exposition in Paris.

One of the objects of the flight is to show the advance in transportation and communication since Washington's time. It will be made on the anniversary of the establishment of the Continental Post. On July 26, 1775, a resolution adopted by the Continental Congress established the post and named Maj. Benjamin Franklin as the first Postmaster General of the United Colonies.

Concert and Folk Dances Given at Sylvan Theater

Summer festival programs of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, assisted by the National Capital Civic Fund, were inaugurated in the Sylvan Theater last night with a concert by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Glee Club and folk dances by Ye Olde Tyme Dancing Club of the Columbia Heights Community Center.

Miss Nina Norman charmed the large audience that filled the slope below the monument with melodies of yesterday. The dances were presented under the direction of Mrs. E. S. Potter. Nat Liebermann added realism to the colonial scene with old-time tunes on the fiddle, while Mrs. Edith H. Hunter accompanied on the piano.

Miss Alice Louise Hunter was a featured dancer.

Members of the dancing club are Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hancock, Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Kebler, Miss Margaret Keogh, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Lefever, Mrs. H. O. Loch, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. O. Rolle, Charles B. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. White and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Wood.
